Reciprocity Treaty Move Expected Youth Succumbs After Machine Collides With Auto On Quadra Street

BENNETT TO VISIT U.S. FOR CONFERENCE

Canada Will Share in International Discussion of Problems at Washington

Wheat And Silver Are Two Of Topics

New York Herald-Tribune Says Canada First in Line for Reciprocity

Canadian Press and Associated Press
Ottawa, April 10.—Premier Bennett will confer at Washington this month with President Roosevelt, it became known here this afternoon.

OTTAWA WATCHING

Ottawa, April 10.—Rapid steps leading to a conference of government heads at Washington attracted the attention of Canada's political leaders as Parliament assembled for a short week of work to-day. Growing out of the invitation of President Roosevelt to Premier MacDonald of the United Kingdom the Washington gathering is likely to be a prelude to the World Economic Conference at London.

Canada will be represented. Since Hon. W. D. Herridge, Canadian Minister to the United States, first met President Roosevelt he had made several visits to Ottawa and the possibility of negotiating a trade treaty between Canada and the United States is believed to have been canvassed. Parliament has Premier Bennett's assurance the government of Canada would look with favor on such a move. At the same time Mr. Bennett stressed the importance of a measure of permanency in any trade arrangement.

FOR FIXED TERM

Canada is not anxious to enter into a bargain which might result in trade channels being developed only to be suddenly disrupted. For that reason, it is thought, this government would press for a fixed term of years in any treaty to be negotiated, and a likely fairly long term.

ROOSEVELT'S STRATEGY

New York, April 10.—The New York Herald-Tribune today said in a dispatch from its Washington correspondent that it is understood Premier Bennett would visit the United States at a date soon after the arrival of Premier MacDonald.

The Herald-Tribune dispatch, in part, follows: "Mapping the strategy of its attack on the world's economic plight, which will bring statesmen or experts of at least eleven other countries to Washington—discussions—in the first six weeks of the month, the administration has determined to make its first concrete advance in the negotiation of one or two individual international tariff and production-control agreements."

"Officials of the administration have selected Canada as the most likely country with which to work out such arrangements, and a preliminary process of very informal exchanges has led to a high hope here that success will be achieved. Establishment of an agreement with Canada would supply a model for subsequent action elsewhere."

SCHOOL STRIKE PLAN IN CALGARY FAILS

Only Three Children Kept at Home on Call of Leader of Jobless Who Protests Reduction in Relief Rates

Canadian Press
Calgary, April 10.—Calgary's threatened school strike failed to make serious inroads into school attendance, according to city officials this afternoon. Only about three children, it was believed, were absent due to their parents' decision to keep them from school as long as the city continued to supply a model for subsequent action elsewhere.

School officials believed there would be few children heeding the strike call in the face of the school board's action. That court action would be taken against parents who kept their children from attending school.

LAW QUOTED

F. E. Spooner, chairman of the board, today declared that parents who keep their children from school "after fair warning." He declared Alberta laws compelled children up to the age of fifteen to attend school and parents keeping children from school would be charged with aiding and abetting discouragement of children's education. Yesterday, at a meeting of 4,000 jobless, Eric Poole, unemployed leader, urged parents to keep their children from school.

FIRE CAUSE OF THREE DEATHS

San Francisco, April 10.—Apartment house fire here early today took three lives and caused possible fatal injuries to two persons.

Loyle Spaulding, employee of the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer Motion Picture Company here, and his wife, Mary, were trapped and suffocated in their third floor apartment by fire which resulted from a gas filled basement explosion in a Grove Street building.

Firemen said the explosion followed the lighting of a match by George Myllymaki, manager of the building. In the gas filled basement Myllymaki, his clothes in flames, fled to the street. He died a short time later in a hospital. His wife, Jennie, was seriously burned.

In the other early morning fire Eugene Ottinas and his wife, Anna, suffered burns physicians believe may prove fatal. They were injured when the Ninth Avenue apartment building in which they lived caught fire as the result of an over-heated fireplace.

JOHN GALT PASSES AWAY

Former President of Union Bank Dies at Rockland Avenue Home

He Was Son of One of Fathers of Confederation; Business Leader

John Galt, former president of the Union Bank of Canada and for almost half a century a leader in the business and financial life of Western Canada, died at his home, 3320 Rockland Avenue, early Sunday morning. He was seventy-seven years of age and the son of one of the Fathers of Confederation. He had made his home in Victoria for the last thirteen years, and has been sitting for the last two years.

The funeral will take place at 2:30 o'clock tomorrow afternoon from the residence, where services will be conducted by Dean Quinton. The remains will later be shipped to Vancouver for cremation.

Mr. Galt was well known across Canada and particularly in Winnipeg, where he resided most of his life, as manager of the wholesale grocery firm of G. P. and J. Galt Limited, later named the Blue Ribbon Company, both of which he founded in conjunction with his cousin, George P. Galt. He served as director on many other Canadian corporations.

Banff, Alta., April 10.—The body of R. E. C. Paley, victim of an avalanche here late Saturday, was recovered yesterday after long hours of digging in crumbled rock and snow.

Climbing on skis to a perilous ledge of Fossil Mountain, a few hundred feet from the top of the 9,000-foot high peak, the adventurer pitched into the valley below and one of his skis scraped light rock and started the avalanche. An inquest was being held this afternoon under the direction of Royal Canadian Mounted Police.

Mr. Paley, only twenty-five years old, was generally regarded as the leading mountaineer in England. Police and park wardens said he had left Skoki Lodge, where he and several others were holidaying. Later some of the party started to track him.

WAS SEEN ON LEDGE
On the top of Deception Pass his tracks led up the steep side of Fossil Mountain. After a short climb, the standers saw Paley high above them, standing still, but for a moment only. They started up after him as he worked out toward the ledge. Extra weight on the ledge and loose rock sent Paley hurtling to his death. Rock, debris and snow tumbled in front and behind him. Inquiries around the lodge, centre of this Rocky Mountain playground for thousands, established the fact that many of the holidaymakers had feared for the safety of Paley because of his dangerous escapades on foot and on skis. His lone excursions to high peaks had caused concern.

Mr. Paley yesterday was to have competed in the first point-to-point skiing race from a high shoulder of Fossil Mountain. It was believed he was studying the ground when lured by the adventure of climbing to the higher ledge, from which he fell to his death.

British Home Squadrons Will Have Admiral Sir William Boyle as Head

Canadian Press
London, April 10.—Admiral Sir William H. D. Boyle has been appointed commander-in-chief of the home fleet to succeed Admiral Sir John Kelly, who will retire next September. Sir William's promotion is the latest of a long series dating back to 1887, when he entered the navy as a naval cadet.

Admiral Boyle is known throughout the service as "Ginger," a nickname which may have arisen from the color of his hair or through his superficially fierce disposition.

Sir John Kelly's retirement will close another brilliant naval career. Sir John entered the navy in 1884 at the age of thirteen. He won for himself considerable fame in the South African War and then in the Great War commanded several naval ships in different waters.

Residents Thought It Fell Close, But Scientists Say It Was 1,000 Miles Away

A meteor of unusual brilliance streaked across the moonlit heavens yesterday evening about 9 o'clock, thrilling hundreds of Victorians who happened to be out of doors. Several people in Esquimalt said they saw the great celestial body quite plainly and thought it had fallen into the sea, somewhere off Victoria. One party phoned The Times this morning to say she had heard the hissing sound it made as it tore through space and another thought the meteor must have plunged into the sea between Esquimalt harbor and Albert Head.

There were no official records of the meteor at either the Connales or the Sanich observatories, although the officials at both places received several inquiries regarding it this morning. Scientists at the observatories estimated, although the meteor looked quite close, it must have been at least 1,000 miles distant. It seemed to be moving very slowly, they stated, which was also unusual for these bodies travel at tremendous speed.

The moon yesterday evening, nearly full, was bright enough to read by, and it lit up the waters of the Straits like a searchlight on a great sheet of ice. Hundreds of people drove along the waterfront and out into the country to witness the magnificent spectacle. The mountains across the Straits were clearly seen and the moon playing on the snow-crowned peaks made a spectacle rarely seen. The brightness and the density of the stars made the sky almost like that seen in the Far North during the summer months.

The meteor seen here was also reported in other northwest places. Seattle, April 10.—Hundreds of people received a great thrill yesterday evening by a flaming meteor which flashed over Queen Anne Hill and disappeared in the direction of Bremerton. Scores of residents were certain the meteor must have landed near here because of its apparent closeness to the earth. One man stated the meteor appeared to have a head about four acres, with a brilliant red tail, streaked with deep blue. The beauty of its flight was accentuated by unusually bright moonlight.

Mr. Carmichael's report, in part, follows: "The campaign was carried out at the schedule time, after only three months of organization. This result was possible because of few committee meetings. The campaign committee sat once, when the completed plan was explained and passed in every detail. Division captains met (Turn to Page 2, Col. 4)

Cecil R. Ward, Seven Oaks, Victim in Sunday Afternoon Traffic Accident; Suffers Severe Injuries and Dies Within Two Hours

Ward died in hospital an hour and a half after the accident. In addition to head and internal injuries, he suffered two broken limbs and the fight to save his life was futile.

David McMillan, 2025 42nd Street East, Victoria, was the driver of the automobile. He was not seriously hurt, but Norval Dutcher, Y.M.C.A. a passenger, suffered severe lacerations of the right knee and is in hospital.

Witnesses of the crash described it as a terrifying sight: Ward was riding his motorcycle north on Quadra Street and was turning to go west on Johnson Street when the collision occurred. McMillan was driving east on Johnson Street.

The motorcycle was knocked about twenty feet, one witness said. Ward was thrown with it. The car, a light sedan, swung northward and smashed into the northwest curb at the intersection, turning on its side. It was badly damaged.

SEVERELY INURED
Injuries to Ward were extensive and severe. His leg and hip were broken, one arm crushed and his skull fractured at the base.

"I never saw a person worse smashed up since the war," said an eyewitness. McMillan and Dutcher were not badly hurt by the impact, but in clambering hurriedly out of the overturned car, Dutcher slashed his knee (Turn to Page 2, Col. 1)

DISTILLERIES WIN THEIR PRIVY COUNCIL APPEAL

Government of Canada Loses Argument on Liability of Company on Bonds Given in Connection With Export of Liquor

Canadian Press
London, April 10.—The Judicial Committee of the Privy Council here today allowed the appeal of Consolidated Distilleries Ltd. from a judgment of the Supreme Court of Canada, which upheld the Canadian government in a dispute over bonds given by the firm in connection with exportation of excisable goods. Consolidated Distilleries Ltd. also attacked the jurisdiction of the Exchequer Court of Canada in the case.

Handing down its decision, the Privy Council found the appellants should be under no liability in respect of the bonds posted. The judges described as "strange" the assumption that in such cases as cited the government could collect virtually double duties. "It would be indeed a matter for comment and wonder," the judgment said, "if the crown were entitled to (Turn to Page 2, Col. 7)

On broken glass, Jack Church, son of Rev. E. F. Church, who witnessed the crash, rendered first aid until the police arrived.

Ward was rushed to the Jubilee Hospital in the C. & C. ambulance and Dr. T. McPherson attended him. He failed to regain consciousness however and passed away at 8:45 o'clock.

Duchet was taken to police headquarters, where Dr. A. C. Sinclair dressed his wound and he was then taken to the hospital.

INQUEST TO-MORROW
Police questioned the driver of the car, but he was not held. An inquest will be held to-morrow morning at Sands Mortuary, where the remains of Ward were taken.

BENNETT TO VISIT U.S. FOR CONFERENCE

WHEAT ACREAGE
In addition to tariff discussions, the private exchanges of information and advice between the two countries has within the last few days been extended again to the subject of mutual limitation of wheat production. The representatives of Argentina, whose government also has been invited to the Washington discussions, will be asked to join in these exchanges, and a way probably will be found to bring Russia into the picture later.

"Canadian spokesmen have warned of the legislative difficulties of obtaining government control of wheat production in their country, but they have agreed there is merit in the contention for limitation privately advanced to them by Henry A. Wallace, Secretary of Agriculture, and Henry Morgenthau Jr., governor of the federal farm credit administration."

IMPORTANT TRADE
The effort to reach a model agreement first with Canada was said to be founded on these reasons:

1. The trade with Canada is of great importance. Only with the United Kingdom is American trade greater, but exports to Canada slumped from $398,000,000 in 1921 to $241,000,000 in 1932. Exports in 1929 to Canada were valued at $920,000,000. Imports from Canada in 1932 were $174,000,000 in value as against $250,000,000 in 1931 and $303,000,000 in 1929.

2. Canada was known to be ready to co-operate.

3. There were no complications to be feared from any existing international political misunderstandings.

SILVER QUESTION
Washington, April 10.—Cordell Hull, Secretary of State, indicated to-day that among subjects to be taken up in the Washington conversations with leading statesmen of Canada, Britain, and other countries in preparation for the World Economic Conference would be restoration of the price of silver and control of wheat surpluses.

The silver question, he said, now was figuring in the Anglo-American negotiations.

VON PAPEN IN ITALY CAPITAL

German Vice-Chancellor Calls at Vatican; Will Talk With Mussolini

Rome, April 10.—Vice-Chancellor Franz von Papen of Germany called to-day on Cardinal Pacelli, Secretary of State of the Holy See, and discussed relations among Chancellor Hitler and his Nazis, the German Catholic Centre Party and the Vatican. Baron von Papen, a Roman Catholic, formerly belonged to the Centre Party.

Pope Pius probably will receive the German government leader Wednesday. Captain Hermann Goering, leading Nazi member of the Hitler cabinet, was to join Baron von Papen here to-day.

Commenting on reports the Baron would discuss reconstruction of the Catholic Centre and that the Pope would seek relaxation of the anti-Jewish movement, prelates characterized these statements as "all hypotheses."

The Vatican's attitude toward Hitler was considerably changed since he came into power. This was principally the result, the Vatican organ, Osservatore Romano, said, of "national socialism change in direction and attitude as evidenced by Hitler's platform speech before the Reichstag."

(Berlin newspapers reported that Hitler himself might make a trip to Rome to discuss the situation of his two cabinet members.)

Both Captain Goering and the Vice-Chancellor are to see Premier Mussolini, whom he called "the great chieftain" of the Italian government, already had been "tangible demonstration" friendship for the new German regime.

DR. VAN DYKE PASSES AWAY

Noted Writer, Preacher and Ex-U.S. Ambassador Was Eighty Years Old

Associated Press

Trenton, N.J., April 10.—Dr. Henry Van Dyke, former United States ambassador to The Netherlands, died to-day at his Princeton home.

Henry Van Dyke, undecided in his youth whether to become a preacher or a writer, eventually achieved prominence as both. In addition he was an author of noted war-time United States minister to The Netherlands and Luxembourg.

The source of Van Dyke's versatility was vitality, a kind of long-standing vigor of living—a natural tendency to obey human impulses—and he followed it.

The son of a Presbyterian minister, Henry Van Dyke was born at Germantown, Penn., November 10, 1852. He was educated at the University of Princeton, where he settled in New York in 1902, later generations of which fought in the Revolutionary War.

He was living in Brooklyn, to which place his father had moved, young Van Dyke early displayed some of the aggressiveness of his ancestors. It is related that he once saved a horse, an older boy for tormenting a horse. The encounter, which ended disastrously to himself, was avenged two weeks later when he administered a drubbing to the same boy.

At sixteen, Van Dyke was graduated from the Brooklyn Polytechnic Institute. He received his A.B. degree from Princeton in 1874 and was awarded the senior prize in English literature. Unable to decide between preaching and writing as a career, he regarded a course in law as a compromise.

He entered the office of the Bank of Montreal and passed through the various stages in the banking business that enabled him later to serve the Union Bank as president for many years.

In 1882, Mr. Galt went to Winnipeg, where railroad construction offered a field of opportunity for an ambitious business man. With his cousin, G. F. Galt, son of the late Chief Justice Sir Thomas Galt, he formed a partnership to carry on business as wholesale grocers.

The Blue Ribbon Company, a subsidiary of the Galt grocery business, was formed in 1907.

Thereafter, the firm wound up the grocery side of the business, and merging with The Blue Ribbon Company, devoted its entire attention to dealing in tea, coffee, spices and baking powder.

MANY ASSOCIATIONS
John Galt was a director of the Canadian Fire Insurance Company, The Trust and Loan Company of Canada, Manitoba Oryzium Company and the Alberta Railway and Irrigation Company. He was president of the Canadian Indemnity Company and a member of the advisory board of the Royal Trust Company.

He was a member of the Union Club of the Colwood Golf and Country Club, Victoria Golf Club and Uplands Golf Club, all of Victoria; of the Vancouver Club in Vancouver; and of the Manitoba Club in Winnipeg.

He was first married in 1885 to Isabelle Atkinson, of Chicago, who died in 1890 to Mabel Patch Henderson.

Surviving him are his widow and two married daughters, Mrs. C. B. Piper, of Vancouver, and Mrs. J. W. Wenden, of Seattle. He also leaves a son, John Galt, Lord Strathcona House, was killed in action in the Great War.

FRENCH DRAFT PEACE SCHEME

Paris, April 10.—The French cabinet to-day approved the new "French plan" which is to be a substitute for the four-power peace pact proposed by Premier Mussolini of Italy. The substitute will be forwarded to interested countries with a memorandum of the reasons for its adoption.

The French plan is a draft agreement, comprising the various points France made in objecting to the Mussolini test and placing the proposed four-power collaboration completely within the framework of the League of Nations.

six times. Many good suggestions resulted from this meeting. The publicity-committee met three times, and the speakers committee three times. Altogether there were only thirteen meetings of committees in the four months occupied in the preparation for and carrying out the campaign.

"It would have been a miracle if all division captains had measured up to standard. Those who most nearly did so reported almost 100 per cent coverage of assignments committed to them. That 11,192 householders were contacted out of a possible total of 15,755 in the time allotted is indicative that the division captains measure up very well to their responsibilities."

"Our records prove that a good woman canvasser is in every respect as good as a capable man canvasser. Our records also show that a trained salesman will get results in the most unlikely quarter and an incompetent canvasser, though willing, will get no results in what should be a good field for results."

"I hardly know where I could suggest any improvement except in small details. Every one co-operated so well that supplies were delivered on schedule and no part was held up a moment. In fact there was no slip up anywhere."

DAILY REPORTS
The campaign for the solicitation of pledges started on Tuesday, February 28, and continued to Saturday, March 25, the results were daily phoned in to the campaign office by the division captains and division captains and there tabulated and released to the press and indicated on the three eight-foot boards, one of which was erected outside the campaign office, the second on the Times building and the third in the Hudson's Bay store.

The campaign was planned to cover approximately 15,755 householders living in the City of Victoria and the municipalities of Oak Bay, Saanich and Esquimalt. These were divided into 800 lots containing from twenty to twenty-five pledge cards. From the results obtained and reports from division captains I assume that there were approximately 11,192 contacts with householders made, and that 4,633 remained uncovered at the end of the campaign.

Pledges signed totaled 2,154. The amount pledged being $449,064.15. Of the above 122 pledges covered improvements within business and semi-business districts of the city, manufacturing, industrial, and other expenditures which cannot be classed as residential.

"North Saanich contributed 190 pledges, or about 400,000 worth of work. Royal Oak and Ward Six, Saanich, contributed twenty-four pledges for $6,993. Various outside districts, including a line of homes in the city, contributed a total of $4,683.00."

"A total of 1,873 pledges was the result of the canvass of the residential districts of Victoria, Oak Bay, Esquimalt, and the municipalities of Saanich and Esquimalt. The value aggregated $296,776.55, or an average in residential districts of $15.82 per pledge. The average of the total pledges, industrial, manufacturing, special expenditures and residential commitments, purchases averaged $217.95 per pledge."

"It is my opinion that the pledges as a whole are genuine and that in the aggregate much more than the amount of the campaign was raised. This is due to the fact that completed pledges already reported indicate greater expenditures than those originally anticipated."

NUMBER PLEASES
In the matter of number of pledges signed per 1,000 of population, our campaign can be considered an outstanding success.

The records of the campaign in Portland show a total of 6,000 pledges, equaling one for every fifty people. Our record shows one pledge to approximately thirty people. No large contract, such as the B.C. Electric Railway Company's estimated $100,000 gas main extension expenditure, was included in our records, which accounts for the low average amount of the pledges. Our campaign compares favorably with that of Munich, Indiana, which attracted world-wide attention. The population of Munich is given as 46,426. The amount pledged in that city's campaign was $353,000, equaling $7.60 per capita. Estimating the population of Victoria at 25,000, we have shown an average of $7.30 per capita, equaling $470,000.

"This is even more satisfactory than the figures indicate, as a circulation of people refused to commit themselves by signing a pledge, even though they stated to our workers that they would spend in many instances more money in fulfilling both the spirit and letter of the pledge."

"The results of the campaign should not be altogether measured in dollars and cents, but in the present emergency which it engendered."

EXPENSE OF CAMPAIGN
My estimated budget, covering a period of four months, was $1,971. During the period of organization two extra commitments were agreed upon, one being a talking picture by Premier Toime, endorsing the campaign, to be shown in the local theatres. This cost $50.50. It was also decided to extend the campaign to include 3,664 householders outside the corporate limits of the city of Victoria, and the municipalities of Oak Bay, Saanich and Esquimalt. This meant more pieces of literature and a mailing expense of $38.84. Notwithstanding these extras the total cost of the campaign to date has been $2,050, made up as follows:

General help including part staff..... $122.50
Printing and posters..... $326.94
Thermometer..... 11.25
Traveling..... 47.25
Postage..... 146.77

Two reels showing Premier Toime endorsing plan..... 60.50
Office supplies..... 10.77
Two full page advertisements contributed by Real Estate Board..... 200.00

DUMP DUTY IS PUT ON BUTTER

New Zealand Shipment at Vancouver to Bear 8 1-2 Cents a Pound

Ottawa, April 10.—A memorandum has come forward from the Department of National Revenue dealing with the New Zealand butter now held in bond at Vancouver. It announces a dumping duty to counteract exchange will be levied against this butter on the same basis as the dumping duty against goods from the United Kingdom is levied.

The dumping duty against United Kingdom goods is the difference between a fixed value of the pound sterling at 4.25 and the average actual exchange rate of sterling on the world market, which is now in the neighborhood of $4.12. New Zealand currency just now is much lower than sterling, so the dumping duty will be correspondingly higher. It is estimated here it will amount to approximately 3 1/2 cents a pound. This import will be in addition to the regular five cents a pound duty.

According to reports in Ottawa, about 250 tons of New Zealand butter is in Vancouver.

FRANCE ADDS SURTAX
Wellington, N.Z., April 10.—France is imposing a surtax of 15 per cent in terms of sterling values on imports of New Zealand apples, according to advice received here by both the government and the New Zealand fruit board.

It is stated the surtax is intended to counteract New Zealand's high exchange rate, although it is understood no similar action has been taken against Australia's France last year amounted to about 20,000 cases. More intensive plans for a large crop this year had given hope for an export of about 50,000 cases.

CHINWANGTAO AGAIN MENACED

Associated Press
Shanghai, April 10.—Japanese reports claimed Chinwangtao, important north China seaport, was again threatened to-day by Manchukuo volunteer troops.

It was admitted a Chinese army had expelled the native Manchukuo under General Ting Chiang from Haiyang, north of Chinwangtao, but a regular Manchukuo force was reported to have reinforced Gen. Ting's detachment and reoccupied Haiyang to-day, continuing in the direction of Chinwangtao.

The Japanese command had disclaimed responsibility for the advance of Gen. Ting's soldiers.

BODIES TAKEN FROM ATLANTIC

New York, April 10.—Recovery of the body of Rear-Admiral William A. Moffett, chief of the United States navy bureau of aeronautics, who was lost with the airship Akron, was reported to naval headquarters here to-day.

The body was the fifth recovered from the sea since the Akron crashed off the New Jersey coast early last Tuesday morning. One member of the crew, taken alive from the sea shortly after the crash, died on the rescue ship. There are only three survivors of the seventy-six men who sailed on the airship.

Yesterday the bodies of Commander Frank C. McCord, commander of the Akron, and Commander Frederick T. Berry, commanding officer of the Lakehurst naval air station, were recovered from the sea within two miles of each other.

The body of Berry, 45-year-old native of Iowa, who was a guest officer aboard the dirigible when she plunged into the sea, was recovered twenty-eight miles southeast of the Barnegat lighthouse, eight miles from the scene of the disaster.

A few hours later the destroyer Tucker also took from the sea the body of the 42-year-old native of Vincennes, Ind., who had been commander of the giant airship since January 4.

CONVICTION IN SCOTTSBORO CASE

One of Nine Negroes Found Guilty in Their Second Trial in Alabama

Associated Press
Decatur, Ala., April 10.—First of a group of negroes sentenced to die for attacking two white girls in the Scottsboro case and granted new trials on appeal again has been condemned to death, but the defence says the fight to save the accused will be continued.

Heywood Patterson, nineteen-year-old Chattanooga, Tenn., negro, was reconvicted yesterday with a recommendation he be electrocuted. The jury had deliberated twenty-one hours. The verdict was branded a "miscarriage of justice" by Samuel S. Leibowitz of New York, chief of defence counsel. He scored Solicitor Wade Wright, one of the prosecutors, for a charge defence witnesses had been "bought with Jew money."

Patterson, standing with bowed head, was visibly nervous as the jury gave its verdict to Judge James E. Horton. He was removed to Birmingham, where the others are awaiting hearings in the case. He will be sentenced formally April 17.

Patterson was convicted of attacking one of the two white girls in the case, Mrs. Victoria Price. She testified during the trial, holding to her original story that she and Miss Ruby Bates were attacked by nine negroes aboard a freight train in March, 1931, as they were hobnobbing their way back to Alabama after a hunt for employment in Tennessee.

The Bates girl, who originally testified an attack had taken place, made an unexpected appearance during Patterson's trial and repudiated her earlier story.

Attorney-General Thomas E. Knight, heading the prosecution, charged she had "sold out."

APPEAL PLANNED
New York, April 10.—The national office of the International Labor Defense announced today an appeal would be taken immediately in the case of Heywood Patterson, negro convicted yesterday in Decatur, Ala., in the Scottsboro case. The announcement said the case would be fought to the United States Supreme Court if necessary.

SECESSION VOTE TO BE FOLLOWED BY CONVENTION

"KING OF JAZZ" TITLE AT STAKE

Paul Whiteman Faces Quarter Million Dollar Suit for Using It

New York, April 10.—After he had heard to his lawyers, Mr. Paul Whiteman was more than slightly worried about that quarter-million-dollar law suit filed against him by an Albany musician named Frank Grimes. For the plaintiff, it appeared had duly registered the title, "King of Jazz," under his own name in 1922. And thereafter Whiteman had exploited the title in his own name, and also had made the motion picture by the same name.

What to do about it? While counsel and friends of the famous orchestra leader were scratching their heads reflectively, somebody remembered that almost twenty years ago, when "jazz" was new in the lexicon of "slanguage," the old Police Gazette had conducted a contest to choose a "King of Jazz." And that contest had been won by—here the old-timers scratched their heads again—a man known around Tin Pan Alley as "Ragtime Frank" Bernard.

"Find 'Ragtime Frank,'" said the lawyers, "and we may be able to show that neither Grimes nor Whiteman had prior legal right to the title."

And finally, after searching from Harlem dives to the headlines of the Bowery, they found him—entertaining in an obscure little place called King's Chop House. The years had not treated him very kindly. He had been down and out much of the time; his hair was white; but he still could bang the piano and sing songs.

"Yes," he said, "I guess I must be the original 'King of Jazz.' Prove it! Sure, I still got the old clippings, and the gold medal, with 'King of Jazz' right on it."

"It didn't take 'em long to forget me though. Jazz was young then and youngsters took it up, and made fortunes out of it. Well, more power to 'em. But I sure hate to think how many times I had to hock that medal of mine."

New Road And Rail Act In Great Britain

Canadian Press
London, April 10.—The road and rail traffic bill—one of the biggest measures that will feature the present session of Parliament—has been presented to the Commons by Lieut.-Col. C. M. Headlam, Conservative member for Durham.

The bill is based on the comprehensive transport inquiry conducted by the royal commission headed by Sir Arthur Salter. It makes provision for regulation of the carriage of goods on roads by motor vehicles and amends the Road Traffic Act of 1930 in relation to wages, hours and conditions of employment in connection with motor vehicles.

The bill would also amend the law relating to railways and makes provision for the constitution of a council to advise the government on transport matters.

Western Australia Voters' Decision Causes Federal Prime Minister to Call Representatives of States Together

Canberra, Australia, April 10.—Premier Joseph A. Lyons said he was "deeply disappointed" but not surprised at the result of the referendum in which the state of Western Australia decided to secede from the Commonwealth.

The Prime Minister said the Commonwealth Government would call an interstate convention to enable other members of the confederation to discuss the constitutionality of the issue.

GOVERNMENT CHANGE
Perth, Western Australia, April 10.—The state of Western Australia today was awaiting the advent of a Labor government in place of the Unionist administration led by Premier Sir James Mitchell.

The state also was on record as having decided in a referendum to secede from the Commonwealth.

Saturday's election even with results incomplete, gave the Laborites a clear majority over the Unionist and Country parties which had formed the coalition government. The figures were: Labor 28, Nationalists 8, Country Party 9 and doubtful 5.

Decision of the voters to secede from the Commonwealth came as a result of a majority view that the interests of the state as a primary producer were not best served by adherence to a confederation containing the eastern states whose views, many claimed, rule in the House of Representatives.

JOINED IN CAMPAIGN
The federal government took official cognizance of the secession move ten days ago and began a hurried campaign, seeking to convince voters it would be what Rt.-Hon. William M. Hughes, Australia's war-time Premier, described as a "crude and futile gesture."

Premier Joseph A. Lyons and heads of financial concerns joined in the campaign against the move. The Prime Minister promised an examination of the difficulties under which Western Australia's interests said they were labored owing to the tariff policies of the government.

Much Beer Cash In U.S. Changes Hands

Reports Tell of Many Persons Given Jobs With Return of Beverage; Business Said to Feel Benefit

Associated Press
New York, April 10.—The jingle of coins in cash registers and the rustle of bank notes in long-empty pockets accompanied the gurgle of beer to-day as many parts of the United States announced: "Business is better."

Thousands knew again what it is to have a job; many stores reported increased business as beer, smiling weather and the approach of Easter combined to stir demand; brewers everywhere rubbed their hands and grinned happily; newspapers in many cities had more advertisements, and Bradstreet's reported a general pick-up in business.

In New York, where thousands were talking of men being re-employed and equipment purchased, city officials announced the receipt so far of $200,000 in fees for permits to sell beer. Beer advertisements swelled the newspapers.

BIGGEST SINCE 1929
At Chicago The Herald and Examiner and merchants agreed the first two days of beer had brought on of the greatest spending spree since the 1929 crash. All newspapers there carried extensive beer advertisements, and a pickup in theatre and club "ads" occurred. Chicago railroads announced heavy beer movements and forecast more jobs.

St. Louis, Mo., reported a checkered picture with the re-employment estimated as high as 7,000, newspapers at the weekend carrying more advertisements than for a year and a half, and business generally reported improved. The employment gain in Los Angeles was estimated unofficially at 10,000.

Louisville, Ky., where estimates of re-employment ran as high as 1,000, saw advertising swell two newspapers to the largest week-day editions of the year.

One Boston brewer announced he had put 300 men to work; another in St. Louis had full brewery crews laboring night and day, while other men rushed installation of new equipment.

IRISH TEACHERS PLANNING STRIKE

Canadian Press
Dublin, Irish Free State, April 10.—The Irish Free State is faced with prospect of a one-day strike of primary school teachers April 24 as a protest against its economy campaign, while members of the civil guard are said to be voicing strong feelings on the proposed to reduce their pay.

School teachers throughout the state held protest meetings at which it was decided the primary instructors should demonstrate their hostility to pay cuts by refusing to work one day.

Colonel Brogan, chief commissioner of the civil guard, led a deputation which interviewed Minister of Justice P. J. Rutledge and laid before him the objections of the force to the government's economy bill.

Laborites in the Dail moved more than a week ago to accord the bill a hostile reception. Withdrawal of labor's support would put the government in a precarious situation as its majority over all other parties is only one.

GRAPHS SHOW QUAKE SHOCKS

Machine First Used in California Gives Record of Value to Builders

Washington, April 10.—First actual "pictures" of how fast and how hard the ground shivered during the California earthquake of March 10—the first time in history that an earthquake has "drawn a picture" of itself—are made public by the Coast and Geodetic Survey.

To most people the "pictures" look like nothing but wavy lines such as might be scribbled by a child learning to write, but to scientists they hold the world's first accurate record of how an earthquake "quakes." Out of the records hidden in these lines may come knowledge that will reduce greatly the tolls of earthquake disasters in the future.

The records actually were "written" by the earthquake itself, for the shaking ground moved a slowly revolving paper strip under a stationary pen that scratched on the paper the actual distance and speed of the earth movements north and south, east and west and up and down.

The pens and paper are the essential parts of "earthquake trap" machines set up about seven months ago and designed so that they would remain motionless for years if necessary but would go into action at the first tremble of the earth's crust. They were developed by the Coast and Geodetic Survey in co-operation with the Bureau of Standards and the Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

The records of the California earthquake are considered "almost perfect" by government scientists, who expect that the information about ground movements that they furnish will help architects and engineers to design buildings, dams and bridges able to resist earthquake shocks.

Most earthquake damage and casualties result from falling buildings and resulting fires. Heretofore, little has been known about how much shaking a building must resist to be "earthquake-proof."

The scribbled earthquake records show that a very rapid and very strong motion of high frequency took place at the beginning of the California shock, followed by shocks of longer period and slower acceleration. Preliminary study indicates that the bulk of the damage was caused by the latter shocks. The first shocks may have been so rapid, said the Coast survey, that buildings actually did not have time to respond to them and start the swaying that shook down debris during later shocks.

ACCUSED MAN IS FOUND DEAD

Associated Press
Beaumont, Tex., April 10.—Dallas Barksdale, sixty-five, sought throughout Texas as a suspect in the slaying of four members of the Liberty County family, was found shot to death on a bank of the Trinity River Sunday. Officers said he had committed suicide. The hands clutched a 22-caliber rifle which sheriffs said had been used by the killer of four members of the family of H. M. Hastings Friday.

Victims of the quadruple slaying were: Mrs. Laura Franklin, forty-five, whom officers said they believed to be a former wife of Barksdale; H. M. Hastings, sixteen; Mrs. H. M. Hastings, twenty-six; Mrs. Franklin's daughter, and H. M. Hastings Jr., three months old.

EARLY ACTION ON TRADE
TREATIES ANTICIPATED

Reports from Washington indicate that President Roosevelt will not long delay the opening of negotiations with other countries for the establishment of trade treaties, with Canada at the top of the list for early action. It is expected that Mr. Roosevelt will ask Congress to give him broad powers in this regard. Mr. C. O. Smith, a well-known Canadian journalist stationed at the United States capital, says the President will not wait less than authority to negotiate such new agreements as in his opinion would promote larger international trade, with Congress agreeing to support his undertakings. It is probable, we are told, that this course might even mean that both Houses would subject them only to their power to veto rather than to affirmative action.

United States Secretary of State Hull declared on Saturday that his country was prepared to lead the way out of the morass of economic nationalism in which he feels the world has been bogged down since the war. He recognizes that the United States has been one of the leaders in championing high tariffs and trade restriction, and believes it is high time to call a halt and adopt what he considers more moderate policies designed to stimulate exchange of goods between nations.

It is pointed out in connection with the President's desire for wide powers that such a request is not without precedent except in the possibly larger scope. The correspondent to whom we have referred recalls that an act was passed in 1890 which gave the President authority to enter upon a comprehensive programme of tariff bargaining, to negotiate and proclaim, without reference to Congress, treaties based upon concessions of duty on specified articles. It also authorized him to negotiate on the basis of more general concessions. It gave him in addition power to negotiate treaties providing for the reduction by not more than twenty per cent of the duties on any articles imported into the United States in return for equivalent concessions by the other party.

What Mr. Roosevelt obviously requires, of course, is quick action. So much time was taken up in making treaties in days gone by that a change in administration took place before they could be presented to the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, which pigeon-holed them. The serious state of world trade in general and of the neighboring republic's external trade in particular is crying out for speedy treatment, and, to be effective, international co-operation will be essential. Bold leadership on the part of the United States in the manner the President proposes to adopt should furnish a sound basis for practical discussion at the forthcoming World Economic Conference.

As far as Canada is concerned, Premier Bennett already has assured Parliament that this country would look with favor on any approach from the United States government with the negotiation of a trade treaty as its objective. At the same time, the Prime Minister laid particular emphasis on the importance of permanency in any trading arrangement which might be reached. If the tariff experience through which the world has gone in the last few years has taught any lesson at all, it is that strangled trade, if continued long enough, simply means international bankruptcy. The benefits that unquestionably will follow a general reduction in tariff barriers, therefore, should assure permanency for the freer trade policy.

HON. F. B. GREGORY
LEAVES THE BENCH

Conscientious, industrious, tolerant, and animated by a high sense of public duty, Hon. F. B. Gregory gave creditable service to the country as a judge on the Supreme Court bench, from which, after a tenure of more than twenty-three years, he retired a few days ago. But this record, noteworthy though it has been, represents but one chapter in the story of his career here, which began over forty years ago with his association with the late A. L. Belyea, K.C., a fellow New Brunswick, in a law firm which before long became widely known in this community.

But the practice of his profession did not engross Mr. Gregory's entire attention, and he found time to interest himself in numerous other activities. One of his favorite diversions was the militia, and he became well-known throughout the country for his connection with the Fifth Regiment which continued for many years and of which he eventually was commanding officer.

He also was actively interested in political affairs. This, of course, was altogether in keeping with the record of New Brunswick's sons in British Columbia, for that province has contributed many prominent figures to the public life of this coast. Hon. Mr. Gregory will take with him into his retirement the good wishes of a host of friends who appreciate the fine contribution he has made to the best citizenship of the province in the many diversified activities of his busy career.

JAPAN AND THE MANDATED PACIFIC ISLANDS

Japan's announcement that she does not propose to surrender the former German islands in the Pacific which were mandated to her, by the League of Nations has intrigued the newspapers of many countries, particularly those of the United States, Britain, Australia, and Germany. There are approximately 1,600 of these islands, with a population of more than 100,000, and they are situated between the Philippine and Hawaiian Islands. As soon as Japan's withdrawal from the League becomes effective she will be required to surrender her authority over the territory in question. Unless she changes her mind in the meantime, her refusal then will present a problem for the League and for the countries which would be involved if the peace were disturbed in the Pacific.

Japan's activities in China are taken by many United States newspapers as an indication of a policy of aggression which is being developed for broader application. The Japanese Ministry of the Navy already has circulated a pamphlet expressing the "indomitable will" of the empire against surrendering the former German possessions. The United States fears the Japanese intend to fortify these islands. The New York Herald-Tribune correspondent at Washington speaks of signs indicating "undue construction work" at various points. Japan refutes the charge. The geographical position of Australia and New Zealand, of course, is responsible for Great Britain's particular interest in the future of the mandated territory.

The advent of Hitler to power in Germany brings that country into the open with the demand that all former German territory shall be restored. This is one of the important planks of the Nazi platform and if the Chancellor's procedure with internal policies, with threats of external significance, be any criterion of what is to follow, the government at Berlin will at least be noisy about the Pacific islands.

In the final analysis, however, our neighbor on the south may be a determining factor in the future of the territory in question. Japan already is economically on her back and upon her behavior within the next few months will depend the success of her appeals for money with which to continue the prosecution of her designs. She defied the League of Nations and put herself in bad grace with the rest of the world. She can not permanently defy the world.

HER OWN MISTRESS BUT STILL WITHOUT A FLAG

When the present session of Parliament comes to an end at Ottawa, Canada will be a law unto itself both as to matters external and internal. Under the authority of the Statute of Westminster enacted by the British Parliament in 1930 it is now lawful for the Canadian Parliament to pass legislation which is "assertive of Canada's nationhood," although we have been virtually running our own business for years. The Statute of Westminster removes certain constitutional anomalies which were in conflict with the accepted status.

It seems unfortunate, however, that Canada, the senior Dominion next to Great Britain, still remains a country without a flag of its own. Surely the government and the opposition could get together on this question and decide upon a design for a distinctive Canadian emblem just as Australia, New Zealand and South Africa have done. It will be recalled that the visiting delegates to the Imperial Economic Conference at Ottawa last year had their own flags. Canada was the only Dominion which could not boast of one.

HOW WILL THE RHODES SUGAR
TAX HIT FRUIT CANNING?

The pack of fruits in Canada increased substantially in 1932; but what story will be told after the Rhodes two-cents-a-pound sugar tax has operated for twelve months? The output of canned fruits of all kinds in the Dominion in 1932, according to Agricultural and Industrial Progress in Canada, a Canadian Pacific Railway publication, was 1,272,334 cases, compared with 784,833 cases in 1931. Pears led other varieties in the pack of fruits, both in the number of cases and in the weight of the pack. The number of cases of pears reported was 374,075 with a weight of 12,138,279 pounds. Peaches came second in number of cases but apples in weight. The number of cases of peaches was 248,934 weighing 7,103,467 pounds, while of apples there were 228,730 cases weighing 9,659,296 pounds. Cherries, plums and raspberries followed next in order by both number and weight. Of cherries there were 114,110 cases weighing 3,877,674 pounds, of plums 85,550 cases weighing 2,642,014 pounds, and of raspberries there were 35,106 cases weighing 1,056,789 pounds. Other varieties listed separately in the report were strawberries 28,210 cases and 819,647 pounds, and blueberries 18,226 cases weighing 554,990 pounds. Of the total fruit pack of 41,742,945 pounds, Ontario produced 32,883,615 pounds, Quebec 208,158 pounds, and other provinces 8,651,172 pounds.

WHAT OTHER PAPERS SAY

NATIONAL POLICY
The St. John Telegraph-Journal
Steady and sometimes disheartening efforts to obtain recognition of the ports on the Canadian Atlantic Coast are apparently bearing fruit. Advantages obtained must not be snatched from us now. The use of these ports in the Maritimes must be written permanently into a national transportation policy working in conjunction with the Imperial preference policy.

DESTRUCTIVE TAXATION
The Stratford Beacon-Herald
A man may create a home, and as soon as it is completed there are authorized agencies in existence with power to level taxation against that home. There are many of them. If they exercise the powers of taxation to an extent which is greater than the ability of the home owner to meet, then the home can be destroyed as far as the man who created it is concerned. We often speak of taxation; we talk about it as something which is heavy, and which should be made lighter; we grow alarmed at times at the extent to which it increases. But not often, if ever, have we looked upon it as a power which can destroy and as an agency which can raise itself to the point where it can successfully challenge the owner to create. We should so view it because that is what excessive taxation really is.

Folk Dancing by Mary Isdale
Students Given High Scores

Adjudicator Appeals to Teachers to Encourage
School Children to Dance

The folk-dancing competitions of the Victoria Musical Festival concluded on Saturday afternoon at the Victoria High School, the adjudicator, Mrs. Cotsworth Clarke, several times remarking that it was too bad that more entries were not competing in various classifications. "Children like to dance, they also like competition. They do better and they are eager to see ideas presented by other groups," she explained. Mrs. Clark expressed conviction that very many more schools of Greater Victoria could have had entries in the folk dancing if the teachers had taken more interest in that phase of the festival. She also regretted that the Scottish element in Victoria had not insisted on having local representation in the Scotch folk-dancing competitions.

At the afternoon session the strongest competition took place in the senior English country dancing events, there being five teams. The Victoria High School, led by Mrs. W. H. Hall, won the event, and therewith the Elks Challenge Shield, defeating the Mary Isdale Dancers of Vancouver by one point. Excellent performance of the "Wotches," the second and optional number, earned the trophy, the marks for the test piece being equal.

The Mary Isdale Dancers took to Vancouver the three other events of the afternoon programme, defeating St. Christopher's School for the Davis and King Challenge Cup for junior folk dancing, and the Duke of Perth Scottish selection for the Duke of Perth Scottish selection.

The splendid senior team this school entered for the senior folk dancing other than British, and for the Scotch folk dances were unopposed, and took away the B.C. Electric Challenge Cup and the George McGregor Challenge Cup, the respective awards in those classes.

Their performances were of outstanding character, and the adjudicator asked that the dance for the Scotch folk origin and the Duke of Perth Scottish selection be repeated at the evening entertainment at the Royal Victoria Theatre. This request was made after the dance had been awarded the unusually high marking of 184 for the folk dancing, 91 for the test piece, "Fretful," and 99 for the Scotch selection.

The results were:
Class 112, Folk dancing—Other than that of British Isles; junior; competing for Davis and King Challenge Cup; test piece, "The Creted Hen" and own selection: 1. Mary Isdale Dancers, 173; 2. St. Christopher's School (Mrs. W. Wilson), 172.

Class 113, English country dancing—Senior; competing for Elks Challenge Shield; test piece, "Parsion's Fawcett"; own selection: 1. Victoria Rangers (Miss Ames), 179 (88-91); 2. Mary Isdale Dancers, 178 (88-90); 3. St. Margaret's School (Miss B. Grant), 178 (88-91); 4. First Victoria Girls' Guides "A" Team tied with First Cowichan Girls' Guides "B" Team, 173.

Class 114, Folk dancing—Other than British Isles; senior; competing for B.C. Electric Company Challenge Cup; test piece, "Fretful" and own selection: 1. Mary Isdale Dancers, 184; 2. Victoria Rangers (Miss Ames), 183; 3. St. Christopher's School (Mrs. W. Wilson), 181; 4. Victoria Rangers (Miss Ames), 181.

Twenty-five Years Ago To-day

THE VICTORIA DAILY TIMES
April 10, 1908
(From The Times Files)

Weather Forecast—Victoria and Vicinity—Light or moderate winds, generally fair, with stationary or higher temperature.

The Victoria dogs did splendidly down at Oakland. The result has proved that Victoria has as good dogs as can be found anywhere on the continent, for there are no better dogs than those found in the west, and Victoria has swept the west. When it was suggested that the dogs should be taken down to California for exhibition some people smiled, but the owners of the canines knew what they were doing.

A special dispatch from Halifax states that 1,800 lobsters which it is proposed to place in Coochichew Cove, Skook, in order that it may be determined whether this species of crustaceans will thrive in British Columbia waters, were shipped from that city yesterday, which means that they should arrive on this coast next Wednesday.

The necessity for the endorsement by the people of the sewer loan by-law for $50,000 which will be voted upon on Thursday next is shown by the fact that the city, within the past few days, has been forced to suspend practically all sewer extension work owing to the shortage of funds.

Owing to the inclement weather, work has not yet commenced on the West Coast road construction. It is probable that this will be delayed until about May 1, as April is one of the worst months for outdoor work in this neighborhood. A gang of about seventy men will be sent out as soon as the weather permits, and the road will be completed this summer.

Oregon All-stars
Whip North Shore

Portland, April 10.—The Oregon all-star soccer team defeated the North Shore United eleven of Vancouver, B.C. 2 to 1 here yesterday in the most surprising upset of the season. An estimated crowd of 2,500 attended the contest.

Touted as the champions of western Canada and one of the finest soccer squads in the west, the North Shore kickers fought an uphill battle all way. The all-stars scored first after thirty-five minutes in the first half, were tied after forty minutes of the second period, and went on to win two minutes later with the final score of the game.

Claude Hockey, Oregon goalie, was the outstanding star of the game with an exceptional exhibition of goal tending.

CALGARY STADIUM WIN
Calgary, April 10.—Calgary Stadium today held the Alberta Intermediate men's basketball championship. After defeating Raymond 34 to 24 here Friday night, the Calgary boys again chalked up a victory, 36 to 34 Saturday night to win the two-game total-point round, 70 to 68.

More players than ever before are expected to dot the greens and fairways. Play will start immediately.

CORFIELD HEADS
NANAIMO TENNIS

Special to The Times
Nanaimo, April 10.—The Nanaimo Tennis Club has elected the following officers: Honorary president, R. R. Hindmarch; president, N. T. Corfield; vice-president, J. T. Carrigan; secretary-treasurer, Mrs. D. Wilson; executive committee, E. Beckenridge, P. A. Hanna and Miss Carruthers.

Spinster Brides
Conceal Ages

Reuter's Special to The Victoria Times
London.—Men, when they marry, are just as few as women about their ages. At least 1,524 bridegrooms failed to state their full ages in the registers, according to the latest annual return of marriages.

There were also 1,675 brides who were not accurate about their years.

The spinster brides were the worst offenders by about 40 per cent. But when widowers remarry they are twice as careless about their correct birth-days as are wives.

In these second marriages 521 widows and only 257 widowers stated their exact ages. The errors were only a matter of two or three years. Many people thought it was enough to say they were thirty-five, forty, forty-five or fifty, believing that the odd years in between did not matter much.

There were a number of women who stopped at twenty-eight for six or seven years.

Arrangements have been made to hold a part of two teams in the course during the summer holidays under the direction of W. Bolway, provincial camp chief. Dates of the course have not been decided yet, but it will probably be held early in August. It lasts for twelve days, and covers the practical side of scouting.

A number of people who would like to take a practical interest in scouting are deterred because they know nothing about the game, and so do not know how to get about learning. Here is the opportunity for such persons to obtain at first hand a good working knowledge of scouting. Particulars will be issued in due course to all scouts. Anyone not present in scouting who would like further particulars should get in touch with the district commissioner, who will be glad to furnish any information. The cost will not exceed $6 for the twelve days.

The secretary wishes to meet the captain of two teams in the inter-trip Football League, senior and junior, at district headquarters tonight at 7 o'clock.

It has been decided to organize an inter-trip Football League, play to commence when the football schedule is completed. All scouts whose troops wish to enter the league are asked them to notify the secretary, W. C. Dixon, as soon as possible.

THIRD VICTORIA TROOP

Thanks to Life Insurance
... kept in force

They have a "Full-Time Mother"

THAT baby, so tiny and helpless—that growing boy, the "living image of his father"—will not lack a mother's care.

They have a "full-time Mother", one who is not forced to look for work—thanks to the Life Insurance which Dad so wisely provided.

Of course, both parents had to economize at times to keep the Life Insurance in force. But the result of their thrift is that Mother today is financially able to carry on alone. She can keep her home together, and see that her children are properly fed, clothed and educated.

If YOU haven't sufficient Life Insurance to protect your family, decide now to secure the protection you need. And, if you do own adequate Life Insurance, maintain it unimpaired. It is one of the real necessities of life.

Metropolitan and Victoria Ladies' Choirs Victorious

Former Scores Highest Adult
Choral Marks of Week at Last Session of Festival

Doris Lythgoe, Nanaimo, Is Awarded Rose Bowl at Royal
Victoria Saturday Night

The seventh annual Victoria Musical Festival was brought to an auspicious close Saturday evening, when a packed Royal Victoria Theatre was treated to an excellent programme, comprising several important classes and some exhibition performances. The Victoria Ladies' Choir under Ira Dilworth retained the Daily Colonist challenge shield after spirited competition, and Metropolitan United Church Choir, conducted by Frank E. Tupman, wrestled the W. A. Jameson Coffee Company Challenge Shield from First United singers.

Unscheduled treats were accorded when Dr. J. F. Staton, adjudicator-in-chief, led the two last-named choirs through one of the test pieces, "I Saw the Lord" (unaccompanied), and later led the assemblage in the singing of the refrain from "Land of Hope and Glory," and also the National Anthem.

In his final general remarks, Dr. Staton observed that the festival movement was the most living thing in the musical world to-day, and it behooved every citizen to support a festival. There were, undoubtedly, some among the audience who were not keen and who perhaps had come because they felt it their duty or because their wives were musical. Dr. Staton emphasized, sincerely back, that festival for love of music alone, they probably realized the great potential force music could be in building up citizenship in the young people. He paid tribute to those teachers who are in charge of the school children and reminded the gathering that such directors entered a festival often without proper recognition being given their voluntarily contributed services.

Dr. Staton said he thought those people who had come to him and observed that the singing here was not what he was used to in Great Britain were missing the point entirely. He was not in sympathy with such comparisons in any case, but he added there was no reason why the standard here and throughout Canada should not steadily rise until the time should come when a Canadian visiting London could remark that the music he heard there was pretty good but not up to the Old Land, meaning Canada. In adjudicating the ladies' choir class, Dr. Staton praised the shaping, chording and conducting of the winning choir, which he awarded 169 marks to the 167 of the Vancouver Ladies' Choir and the 164 of the Schubert Club. The quality of tone of the three choirs, he said, was quite equal to what he had heard at the forty or fifty festivals he had adjudicated each year for the last few years. He mentioned the great things that might be accomplished if the two ladies' choirs of Victoria, he had just heard, joined with the male choirs adjudicated earlier in the week.

CHURCH CHOIRS

In his last adjudication, Dr. Staton awarded the high marks of 175 to the winning Metropolitan Choir and 165 to the First United group. The winners were commended for their performance. The W. C. Nichol shield for highest marks in all eight adult choral classes was presented to them by the adjudicator.

Doris Lythgoe, Nanaimo, secured the prized Rose Bowl, for being the best of open class. She was followed by Chivers with 166, five behind the winner. Both sang their test pieces from the Royal stage Saturday evening. George Dodd made a very enjoyable adjudication.

Elizabeth Rydner, gifted Seattle violinist, was the only entrant in the Gold Medalists' competition. She was given ninety-one marks by Youth Board and also a very fine adjudication. "Everything was first rate," said Mr. Bowen.

Professor G. G. C. Wood, elocution judge, gave a short talk from the stage on the day's work. He expressed regret at the comparative smallness of the boys' and adult entries, and pointed out the value of voice training, as distinguished from the popular conception of elocution as "tearing a pattern to tatters."

Songs were also rendered by Miss Dorothy Parsons, winner of the operatic class, and Miss Violet Wilson, winner of the Lied class.

Another attraction on the programme were the exhibition folk-dances. Those who participated in these were: Bank Street School, St. Louis College and two groups of the Mary Isdale dancers of Vancouver.

Outstanding Sports Events Billed in Victoria This Week

Western Basketball Finals and B.C. Amateur Golf Feature

Newmarket Redmen Must Be Band of Courageous Youngsters

THE NEXT seven days will be busy ones in sport in Victoria. Not for many years have so many events of outstanding calibre been on the sports calendar. The feature competition of the lot will be the western Canada basketball finals between the Victoria Blue Ribbons, British Columbia champions, and Raymond Union Jacks, Alberta titleholders, which opens at the Willows on Wednesday night. This series will be a best two out of three engagement. The games are expected to smash all attendance records in the history of the cage sport here. It is the first time western finals have ever been put on in the city.

Starting Friday at the Victoria Golf Club the annual British Columbia amateur golf championship will continue over four days. This is one of the big golf affairs of the year and will attract the leading amateurs in the province. On Easter Monday a McKechnie Cup rugby classic is scheduled.

Several football matches will be held over Easter week-end while a bicycle racing meet and road race are also billed during the holidays.

Newmarket Redmen, Canada's new junior amateur hockey champions, must be a band of courageous youngsters. Newmarket turned back the Regina Pats, western winners, in two straight games. The Redmen came through after being battered and torn by a long grueling play down series and having their ranks riddled by injuries.

Lou Marsh, sports editor of The Toronto Star, had the following to say about the Newmarket boys after their victory over Montreal Royals in the eastern final.

"I went into the Newmarket dressing room before the game. It looked like an emergency ward on a busy day. Ten boys in there stripping for a game which meant a title or oblivion. A doctor, three expert masseurs and trainers taping, bandaging and padding. . . . volunteer workers pulling out skates, vesting, pain-racked boys who could not even stoop to get their own gear on. . . . bandaged shoulders. . . . bandaged ribs. . . . legs taped and padded to their owners' delight. . . . three boys with plasters over face cuts. . . . two with black eyes."

"Only one boy in all that crew was sound and uninjured. Ogilvie, a raw rookie from the Newmarket town league, pressed into the emergency when the black-eyed kid, so nervous at the load piled on his shoulders that he could scarcely dress himself."

Over on one bench sat a lad with a pair of crutches. . . . his leg stuck out stiffly in front of him. . . . a plaster cast on that leg. . . . Peterson, the lad, was injured in a bicycle crash. . . . cartilage of the knee torn. . . . pleading for his skates, a roll of adhesive, and a chance to get out there and go in with the rest of the cripples."

"Over in the corner a lad winced and groaned as expert hands taped up a shoulder. . . . Preston, with a partially dislocated shoulder that had to be taped up before he could even pick up a stick. . . . On the rubbing table, Fowler, the goalie, with a torn ligament in his shoulder. . . . another mass of tape and pads."

"Behind the table Sparky Vail and Doran, the defense pair. . . . Don Willson, right-winger. Vail with both his hands bandaged from knuckles to wrists. . . . both knees wrapped. . . . Doran, left-winger, with adhesive giving support to legs and arm injuries. . . . another patch over his eye. . . . Willson with a big splint of tape over a fractured rib. . . . a thumb as big as a tomato. . . . a iodine and more adhesive for him. . . . he couldn't lace his own skates. . . . Ruggins with a patch of adhesive as big as a dinner plate supporting a damaged back."

"But why go on. . . . every player in that room except the goalie, the spare goalie, and Ogilvie, the rookie, was taped and bandaged up from an injury which would have kept him on the bench if Newmarket had anyone else to go in there and take up the burden."

Did you know that two of the Philadelphia Athletics' recruits are Madjeski and Chiocki. . . . and players called the halfway between their rooms in the Bradford Hotel at Port Myers, P.I., the Polish corridor. . . . Frank O'Doul not only is the best batter in the National League, but comes pretty close to being the best dressed gent. . . . Eppa Rixey of the Cincinnati Reds is forty-two, but he has never been older than twenty-seven."

Sidney Wells's father made a fortune trading horses. . . . Sidney made a million selling aurochs. . . . now the owner of the Reds is playing them close to his vest, having dropped a pile in the stock market. . . . Notre Dame football team gets another Jack-wich from Kansas. . . . next fall Eddie. . . . who looks to be a better prospect than Chuck, the Irish half-challenger of the last two years."

After making the announcements for more than 25,000 boxing matches in fifty years, George Harlow, London announcer, recently retired.

Soft-arming was permitted in basketball in the early days of the sport, and the blocking was just as rough as in rugby.

THOUSANDS OF FANS PULLING FOR RANGERS

Lester Patrick Describes as "Bunk" Reports All Canada Behind Toronto

New York Team Participating in Hockey Final 100% Canadian

Toronto, April 10. — Jubilant confidence rode high in the camp of New York Rangers to-day, and disappointment stalked morosely through that of Toronto Maple Leafs as the tide of hockey fortune carried Rangers to a two-game margin in the fight for the Stanley Cup.

In his thirteenth Stanley Cup final, Lester Patrick was as delighted as though it were his first when Rangers won 3 to 1 Saturday night in the second of the three-five series. The lean mentor of the Blueshirts took occasion to characterize as bunk the reports all Canada was pulling for a least victory.

"We have received thousands of letters and telegrams from all over the Dominion," he said, "wishing us luck in this series, contradicting the report that all Canada was behind the Toronto team. Our team is 100 per cent Canadian, so why shouldn't we have support. We are going to take the Stanley Cup from 'Hogtown'."

Over in the Leaf dressing room the atmosphere was heavy with silence as the players obviously showed their disappointments at the result.

"We were below par in this game," said Coach Dick Irvin. "The reaction from the Boston series was there, but with regular practices for Tuesday's game we will be nearer to the condition required to beat a team like the Rangers, who are evidently at top form."

Rangers Use Three Lines of Defence to Great Effect in 3 to 1 Win

Third Battle On To-morrow Night

Heller, E. Seibert and Bill Cook Notch New York Goals; 14,000 Attend

Toronto, April 10. — Sheltered from their own strong-hold by a New York Ranger firing corps that seeks revenge along with victory, Toronto Maple Leafs scrambled to-day to erect fresh barricades around the Stanley Cup for a last stand against the challenger with a "three-straight" battle cry.

So superb in triumph they sent cold shivers down the spines of 14,000 Toronto fans, Rangers scored their second straight win in hockey's world series here Saturday night, upsetting the defending champions 3 to 1 to take a commanding lead in the five-game series.

If they can clinch the title by beating Leafs to-morrow night, it would be complete revenge. A year ago the Leafs rode to the championship with three consecutive wins over Lester Patrick's Blueshirts. Winter over the Montreal Canadiens and Detroit Red Wings in the qualifying play-offs, Rangers won the first final-series game from Toronto 3 to 1 at New York.

Battled by three lines of defense that seldom opened up after Leafs had pushed in a goal at the start of the first period, Conny Smythe's attackers fought grimly and vainly to find a weakness in the Ranger machine.

Power plays were foiled, "kid line" assaults smashed on the rocks of the Ching Johnson-Earl Seibert defense. Even the heaviest scoring forward line in hockey, Bill and Bun Cook and Frank Boucher, concentrated on defensive measures, checking back furiously to many juniors. Andy Altkenhead, the Saskatoon puck-stopper, playing in his first Stanley Cup series, was kept busy—but with courage and skill.

An opening strategy effort by Coach Dick Irvin produced the only Leaf goal in a last-minute switch. Irvin started Bobby Grace, Andy Blair and Ken Doraty on the forward line and in a minute and eleven seconds Doraty, mile wingman who early last Tuesday won the National Hockey League title for Toronto with his two-in-the-morning goal, scored.

King Clancy fed Grace a pass and the speedy winger shot to allow the pinch-hitting rookie to beat Altkenhead on the rebound. Thereafter the Cooks, Ott Heller, Butch Keeling, Earl Seibert and Cecil Dillon were in.

It took Rangers six minutes to get back the Doraty tally. Heller got it, batting in the rebound of a shot by Art Somers.

Bill Cook sent Rangers in front midway through the first period when the Blueshirts were short-handed. Bill skated right up to Lester Patrick, lifting a backhand shot into the net.

Late in the third period Earl Seibert definitely quashed Toronto hopes with the third-Ranger goal.

Somers, Altkenhead, Johnson, E. Seibert, Boucher, Bun Cook, Bill Cook, Keeling, Pettinger, Somers, Heller, Butch Keeling, Dillon, Conacher, Doraty, Murdoch, Dillon, Conacher, Levinsky.

Second Period—No score. Penalties—Doraty, Murdoch, Dillon, Conacher, Levinsky.

Basketball Players Will Be Allowed to Re-enter the Game Twice in Future

Ten-second Rule Will Apply on All Courts; Rules Committee Reorganized

New York, April 10.—The newly organized National Basketball Rules Committee of Canada and the United States studied the playing code intensively Sunday and decided only a few minor changes were necessary.

Membership of the new committee, organized to replace the old joint basketball rules body, was limited to seventeen, with the balance of power going to the American Collegiate Athletic Association.

As organized under the chairmanship of W. St. John, Ohio State, the committee consists of one representative of Canada, eight representatives of the C.A.C., one from each of that organization's districts, four from the High School Federation, two from the Amateur Athletic Union and two from the Y.M.C.A.

The committee took the position the drastic changes made to eliminate stalling last year had worked exceedingly well and no further radical alterations were needed.

The committee decided, however, that hereafter players may re-enter the game twice, instead of only once. It was pointed out the new rule would permit more frequent substitutions and lessen the need of keeping tired players in the game.

The committee decided also that the famous "ten-second rule," adopted last year to eliminate stalling, would apply hereafter on all courts, irrespective of whether they are sixty feet or more in length.

Time after time the Bays kicked clear, only to have McInnes punt back into their own half. The artillerymen maintained pressure.

A pretty Fifth three-quarter attack carried the ball to the Garmen's flag, where Syd Gault was forced out within inches of a try.

Shortly before the half ended the Bays uncoiled a series of offenses, gaining on short runs and kicks, but failed to get past the strong Gunners' defense.

The rowing club gained on a kick exchange after the interval, Lemm entering the kick-off and J.L. Munro plunging deep into the Bays' ground when the kick was booted back.

Royal Oak Will Meet Chemainus

In the Lower Island final of the Provincial Junior Football Cup, Royal Oak will meet Chemainus at the Athletic Park on Saturday afternoon, commencing at 1:30 o'clock. The game will act as a preliminary to the Coast League fixture. A meeting of the Junior Football League will be held at the Y.M.C.A. on Wednesday evening at 7:30 o'clock.

Bob Kruse, Portland heavyweight wrestler, scored another victory at the Pacific Stadium on Saturday evening, when his opponent, Ernie Bickerton, Vancouver, took a dive through the ropes in the third round and knocked himself out.

In the semi-windup, Frank Draper, Vancouver, took two out of three falls from Mel Crowe, Halifax. Lloyd Fenlon won from Reg. Hopkins in the local preliminary.

Neither wrestler had secured a fall in the main event when Bickerton made his flight through the ropes into the seats to finish an uninteresting match. The Vancouver man proved no match for the clever Kruse.

In the semi-windup Draper gained the first fall in the second round. Crowe evaded matters in the fourth, only to have Draper secure the winning fall in the fifth.

Mount Allison, conquerors of Halifax Wanderers, are scheduled to report to Montreal to-morrow for the first game in the eastern Canada semi-finals against Notre Dame. The second game will take place Wednesday.

The Province-by-the-Sea representatives, with Wanderers, 49 to 26 Saturday, but a thirteen-point victory in the first game enabled them to coast through the second game.

Notre Dame de Grace sustained little opposition in their two-game series with Ottawa Football Club which was played Saturday night. The Montrealers won the second game, 56 to 37, to take the round 98 to 51.

Wednesday night at London, Ont., Windsor-Walkerville Alumni and St. Catharines Grade will clash for the third time in an effort to settle the Ontario supremacy, each having won a game in a two-of-three-game series.

After taking the first game, 46 to 21, at Windsor, Alumni found St. Catharines vastly improved team on their home court and dropped a 36 to 33 decision.

The winner Wednesday will meet the survivor of the Quebec-Maritime series for the eastern Canada title.

Mount Allison University, New Brunswick, maritime champions; Notre Dame de Grace, Montreal; Quebec's best, and Windsor Walkerville Alumni and St. Catharines Grade, two Ontario teams, are left in the east.

Huddersfield Win With Three Goals

Pulls Off Hat-trick in Smashing Soccer Victory Over Sheffield Wednesday

Rangers and Motherwell Continue to Draw Ahead in Scottish Senior Section

London, April 10.—Arsenal, Sheffield Wednesday, Aston Villa and Newcastle United to-day remained in that order in the great struggle for top honors in the big loop of the English Football League, but it still looked like anybody's championship after Saturday's games.

Guns had no cinch beating the eighteenth-place Middlesbrough 4 to 3, and the Wednesday, after going strong for a long time, took a walloping from Huddersfield Town 4 to 0. Aston Villa's 1 to 1 tie with Manchester City gave the Villans nothing to crow about, while Newcastle United found Sunderland good enough to beat them 1 to 0.

Ten thousand saw Huddersfield down Wednesday. Goodall scored on a penalty in seven minutes. Half-way through the first half McLean took Butts' centre near the goal and added to the score, coming back before the interval to notch his second and his team's third. Wednesday's tried desperately to recover the lost ground in the second frame and improved a bit, but could not do more than McLean from completing a hat-trick.

A SURPRISE Chelsea's 6 to 0 win over Leeds United came as a surprise to 30,000 Londoners who saw the Pensioners spring to life and draw away from the Leeds which had put them in danger of relegation at the end of the season. Things looked pretty even until Oakland scored from the edge of the penalty area midway through the first half. Play then seemed till the interval. Resumption saw Chelsea run riot. Mills started it with a fast goal, which did not give the Leeds goal a chance. Then Port headed in Oakland's centre. Gibson drove in a hot one and came back to score a second. A header by Galt clicked. Gallacher, whose smart passing had tickled the crowd all afternoon, came in to score the final tally.

It was a tough day for second division leaders. Stoke City stayed unbeaten in the top step, but lost to Fulham, 1 to 0, while Tottenham Hotspurs found Bradford City just good enough to take their game, 3 to 1. Spurs appeared below form to 38,000 fans as Bradford carried the first half attack. Tom Barkas got the first of the winner's tallies from close in. The second half saw a vicious struggle between Spurs' forwards and the opposing defence, and Allen, making his first appearance, drove in the equalizer. It was no good, however, as Bradford City managed to get the winner out of a scramble.

Brentford, in third place of the third division southern section, climbed back into a slim hold on top honors by beating fourth-place Reading 3 to 1, while Norwich City, defeated by thirteenth-place Torquay United dropped to second in the north section. Reading drew first blood against Brentford when the latter's goalie, Baker, saved a hot shot from McPhereson, only to have Gamble charge him as he was trying to clear. Within five minutes Brentford tied up on Holliday's goal off Scott's pass. Holliday got his second soon after resumption off Crompton's centre and Crompton got the final tally.

Norwich City was downed, 2 to 1, by Torquay in the second game. Hull City had little difficulty winning from Barrow, 2 to 0, to retain first place in the north section. Watncoat scored the first goal and assisted in the second, which McNaughton shot.

Glasgow, Scotland, April 10.—Rangers and Motherwell, far out in front of the first division of the Scottish Football League, continued to score two goals apiece in the second game.

The teams follow: Rangers—Bourne, Eastwood, Spence, Rice, George Ball, Thame, Obee Sprinkling, Tommy Baird, White and Sadler.

Duncan—Strouger, Chester, Thomas, Williams, Alphonse, Johnny, Harry El. Hot, Alec Johnston, George, John Thorne, Preston and Bill Thorne.

In a Toluca Cup match played at the lower Beacon Hill grounds, the Jokers managed to escape through to a 2 to 1 victory over the Jacobean-Wards.

The scoring was seen in the first half. Shortly after the start, the Jacobean-Wards missed a great chance to score when Gibson failed to beat Wesley from a penalty kick.

The Jokers went into the lead when Viggers lodged the ball in his opponent's net.

Results of Junior Football League matches played Saturday follow: Royal Oak 1, James Island 1. Oaklands 5, Y.M.C.A. 0. Jokers 4, Equival 0.

OPEN TENNIS TOURNAMENT CALLED OFF

U.S. Association Abandons Plans for Event Owing to Lack of Suitable Date

Strong Opposition to Event Develops in Europe; Leading Pros Were to Enter

New York, April 10.—Because a suitable date could not be found, the United States Lawn Tennis Association's executive committee yesterday abandoned plans for holding an open tennis tournament this year.

The Germantown Cricket Club Philadelphia, which was to have staged the tournament, insisted that it be held in September. The executive committee pointed out that the U.S. singles and doubles and the Pacific Southwest championships all were scheduled for September.

Authority for an open championship, in which such professional stars as Bill Tilden, Vincent Richards, Hans Nielsen and others, would have me leading amateurs, was given at the annual meeting of the U.S.L.T.A. two months ago.

Strong opposition to the plan, however, has developed, especially abroad. The international federation unofficially expressed disapproval at its meeting in Paris in March, and a member of the council of the English Lawn Tennis Association has gone so far as stating that any amateur who competed in the open tournament would be barred from playing at Wimbledon.

Ellsworth Vines, U.S. champion, announced recently that he would not participate in the open.

DUNCAN TAKES CUP FOOTBALL

Defeat Outer Wharf Rangers 3 to 1 in Good Match; Jokers Win 2 to 1

Duncan Native Sons advanced to the local final of the Province Cup football series, by defeating Outer Wharf Rangers 3 to 1, in a closely contested semifinal at the Heywood Avenue grounds on Saturday afternoon. Duncan will now meet the Jokers in the deciding round, the winner to oppose the mainland champions in the final for the trophy.

Although they won by a two-goal margin, Duncan was extended to triumph over the Rangers, and their second and third counters only came in the last stages of the match. First of the Rangers was featured by the splendid exhibition turned in by their goalie, Fred Bourne. He saved his team twice, and again.

Early in the second half the Rangers tied the score. Obee kicked in a nice centre, and Bejford headed the ball past Strouger. Duncan rallied, and Bourne made a couple of fine saves or hard drives. With only five minutes left, Duncan lodged a determined offensive and managed to score two goals through Preston to hang up their victory.

The teams follow: Rangers—Bourne, Eastwood, Spence, Rice, George Ball, Thame, Obee Sprinkling, Tommy Baird, White and Sadler.

Duncan—Strouger, Chester, Thomas, Williams, Alphonse, Johnny, Harry El. Hot, Alec Johnston, George, John Thorne, Preston and Bill Thorne.

Eastern Hockey Champions Capture First Game of Allan Cup Final, 3 to 0

Win in Second Game at Vancouver To-night Will Give Hawks Canadian Title

Vancouver, April 10.—Holding a one-game advantage as a result of their 3 to 0 victory Saturday night, Moncton's speeding Grey Hawks meet Saskatoon Quakers here to-night in the second of the three-game series for the Canadian senior amateur hockey title, and the Allan Cup. A Quaker win to-night will force the title round into a third game, but a win for Hawks will give them the title to take to the Maritime Provinces for the first time in history.

Both squads will take the ice with the same starting line-up as in the first game. Cooney Wood, veteran goalkeeper of the Quakers, whose string of consecutive scoreless minutes in play-off hockey was broken at the 41st-minute mark by Bill Gill Saturday night, will be in the nets for the Quaker team.

Hobbs Wilson and Elmer Piper will form the Quaker defence, with Ray Watkins, Tony Rogers and Tony Hemminger in front. Jimmie Dewey, stellar centre, Bert Scharfe and Les Bird will form the relief for the Quakers starting front line, while Cliff Lake will relieve Wilson and Piper on the defence.

Jimmie Foster, with a string of twenty shutouts to his credit for the season, six in play-offs, will defend the Moncton goal.

Len Burrage and Bill Gill will team up on the Moncton defence, while Bill Miller, Bert Connelly and Charles Irvine will be on the firing line. Miller, in his spare minutes, alternates on defence with Burrage. Gill usually goes the full sixty minutes. The "Duke" McDonald, who won the heart of every fan in the first game with his lightning rushes, Sammy McManis, Harold James and Aubrey Webster, will help the Hawks' front line.

In Saturday night's game Moncton took a one goal lead in the first period, but after a scoreless second, the Quakers drove through for two more in the third, Irvine and McDonald making the scores.

SUMMARY
First Period—1, Moncton, Gill, 19:28. Penalty, Irvine.
Second Period—No score. Penalties: Piper, Watkins.
Third Period—2, Moncton, Irvine (Burrage), 2:20; Moncton, McDonald (Irvine), 5:51. Penalties: Burrage, Scharfe, Piper, Gill, McDonald, Watkins.

THRILLING FINISH OF ENGLISH TURF CLASSIC

Here is the stirring finish of the Grand National Steeplechase at Aintree, England, showing Kellsboro Jack (centre), owned by Mrs. Ambrose Clark, New York, thundering home the winner with Jockey Dudley Williams crouched in his stirrups. Three lengths behind is Really True, only a neck in front of Slater. First to streak across the finish was the riderless Apostasy, (extreme right), whose jockey was hurled from the saddle in one of the hazardous jumps that make the Aintree classic the hardest race in the world.

BLUE RIBBONS EASY VICTORS

Local Basketball Champions Troupe Vancouver All-stars, 43 to 32

Continuing to display the same class that has carried them into the western Canada senior men's basketball finals, the Victoria Blue Ribbons registered a 43 to 32 victory over the Vancouver All-stars in the exhibition game played at the Willows on Saturday evening.

In the preliminary fixture, Ryerson United, Vancouver, lifted the Coast Junior boys' championship by scoring a 41 to 35 win over the Victoria Adanacs.

After securing an early lead the Ribbons were always in front of the Vancouver "reds." Although they won by a comfortable margin, the Ribbons failed to show their usual class. Their passing was a little erratic and their shooting a little off. Playing on the strange floor can no doubt be partly blamed and the locals are expected to be hitting their true form when they meet Raymond United Jacks in the opening game of the western final on the same floor Wednesday night.

RIBBONS IN FRONT
The Ribbons went into the lead in the first minute of play, Lynn Patrick converting from underneath the hoop on a pass from Ross. Armstrong evened matters and Haugh put the visitors in front by tossing through a free throw.

A couple of pretty baskets by Muzz Patrick and a free throw by Lynn regained the lead for the Ribbons at 7 to 3. Chuck Chapman sank one of the long ones and Muzz took a pass from brother Lynn to register, making the count 11 to 3. Wright snared a rebound to add two points to the all-star total. McIntyre, Burnstead and Kennington were rushed on for the All-stars. Muzz Patrick got another basket while Kennington sank a couple for Vancouver. Both teams were scoring baskets freely at this stage and the half-time whistle found the Ribbons on the long end of a 22 to 12 count.

The heavy scoring continued in the final half, with Art Chapman, the two Patricks and Johnny Craig leading the local sharpshooters, and Ochsene converting several brilliant efforts for Vancouver. The Ribbons always managed to hold a safe lead, and the final whistle found them winners by eleven points.

The junior engagement was close at all times, with Ryerson coming through in the last ten minutes to secure the winning points.

Tommy Macedo, Victoria, refereed.

The teams and individual scorers follow:
Blue Ribbons—L. Patrick (7), Little, A. Chapman (6), Craig (6), M. Patrick (12), McKown, C. Chapman (6), Sluggert (2), Ross.

Four Regina Hockey Players Suspended

Vancouver, April 9.—Four members of the Regina Pats junior hockey team were declared suspended by the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association in annual session here on Saturday.

The players are Kerr, Franks, Cunningham and Cairns.

The suspension were made following the wired report by referee Johnny Mitchell in which he stated he had been attacked by the four players after the final game of the Memorial Cup series in Toronto Thursday night in which Newmarket won the title.

From left wing. For the remainder of the game Kula moved up from centre half to centre forward for the Saints, but he was never dangerous.

The teams follow:

"MEN:— wouldn't a C-C-M Bicycle be a good investment in a year of economy?"

"I'M INTERESTED (and so are my work mates), in a pay envelope way, in every sale of a C-C-M Bicycle. Every C-C-M sold is work for us—but let me get this thought across, too: 'I can't think of another product made in Canada which is so useful day in and day out and pays its own way like a C-C-M Bicycle. Think it over!'"

"Most likely you could use a bicycle going to work instead of spending several times its price on other transportation. A C-C-M saves its cost over and over again and returns liberal dividends in better health, besides the EXTRA USE you get out of your bike evenings and holidays.

"Because I have helped to make C-C-M's for 33 years I can honestly say that there is a lot of extra quality built into a C-C-M Bicycle, and this shows up in the carefree service it renders its owner year after year. You'll appreciate the real economy of an easy-running, sturdy bicycle that will 'stand the gaff' and stay out of the repair shop.

"All I ask is that when buying a bicycle you go into the value of a C-C-M thoroughly. You'll recognize good Canadian workmanship in every detail—the value stands right out."

Yours sincerely,
FRANK STOLTE,
C-C-M Employee for 33 Years.

SATURDAY'S RADIANT BRIDE

MRS. ELLIS W. I. KEENEYSIDE (nee Van Vooght)

St. Mary's Church Scene Pretty Lenten Wedding

Miss Angela Van Vooght Married Saturday to Mr. Ellis W. I. Keeneyside

Reception at Home of Bride's Mother; To Reside in Vancouver

One of the prettiest weddings of the Lenten season was solemnized on Saturday evening at St. Mary's Church, Oak Bay, when Rev. Canon A. E. del. Nuns united in marriage Bernice Angela Elspeth, elder daughter of Mrs. van Vooght of 545 Transit Road, and the late S. J. van Vooght, and Mr. Ellis William Irvine Keeneyside, younger son of Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Keeneyside of Tecumseh Avenue, Vancouver.

Daffodils and plum blossoms in standard baskets were placed at the chancel steps, the rails of which were entwined with daffodils and greenery. White similar flowers, with Oregon grape, designated the guest pews. The floral decorations represented the hands of the Beau-Arts, of which the bride's sister is a popular member.

Given in marriage by her cousin, Mr. E. M. Anketell-Jones of Chemainus, the bride entered the church to the strains of the "Lohengrin" "Bridal Chorus," played by the church organist, P. T. C. Wickert. She made a charming picture in her wedding gown of white silk velvet, made on princess lines, with long, tight-fitting mousquetaire sleeves. The high neckline was finished with a roll collar, the bodice being fastened at the back from neck to waistline with tiny velvet buttons. Her veil of exquisite Brussels net, formed a train and was confined to her head with a strand of orange blossoms at the nape of her neck, both the veil and orange blossoms having been worn by her mother at her wedding. She carried a shower bouquet of yellow and white freesias, lily of the valley and yellow and white roses.

THE ATTENDANTS
Quint Kate Greenaway frocks were worn by the three attendants, fashioned alike of olive gold. French crepe on long lines touching the floor and molded to the figure, the short sleeves in the frocks fitted of small ruffles and the bodices buttoned at the back to the waistline.
Little Susan Anketell-Jones, cousin of the bride, was the flower girl, and preceded the bride, wearing up the aisle in a most becoming frock and Victorian bonnet, tied with long streamers of narrow velvet ribbon, and carried a green basket, filled with daffodils. After the bride, came Miss Elizabeth Sledge, who wore a shoulder cape and turban of brown chiffon velvet, and then the maid of honor, Miss Marguerite Van Vooght, sister of the bride, whose cape and turban were of daffodil-leaf green. They both wore crepe slippers of old gold and carried Victorian posies of yellow and white freesias and daffodils.

Mr. J. H. Jefferys of Vancouver was the best man, and the ushers were Mr. Carlton Colliard and Mr. H. G. Dee of Vancouver and Mr. R. Hamilton Smith. During the signing of the register Mr. Oscar McComb played two violin solos "At Dawning" and the Berceuse from "Jocelyn".

RECEPTION HELD
Following the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride's mother, 545 Transit Road, Mrs. Van Vooght receiving the guests in a becoming gown of dove grey French crepe, with straw hat to match, trimmed with a blue feather, and a silver fox fur. She was assisted by Mrs. Keeneyside, mother of the bridegroom, wearing a smart gown of beige lace with hat en suite.
Supper was served from a table reflecting the golden motif, with daffodils and greenery, and tall yellow tapers in golden glass holders, the three-tier wedding cake being ornamented with yellow Du Pernet roses.

Mr. and Mrs. Keeneyside left for a honeymoon in southern California, and on their return will reside in Vancouver. The bride traveled in a tailored suit of green French wool, a pale blue blouse with green and grey straw trimmed with green and blue ribbon and nose veil, with which she wore a grey squirrel coat, the gift of the bridegroom.

NEAL-KING
A quiet wedding was celebrated by Rev. H. M. Bolton in St. Mary's Church, Metchosis, on Saturday evening, when Miss Helen Elspeth Langford was united to Mr. Barnie William Neal of Victoria. Mr. and Mrs. Neal will make their home at Florence Lake.

Woman Trained How To Breathe

Associated Press

Chicago, April 10.—Mrs. Caroline Laplante, who for days has been unable to breathe outside a respirator except at the spoken command of her doctor, is regaining use of the involuntary nerve centres that direct normal respiration.

The strange case, according to physicians, has few parallels in medical history.

Mrs. Laplante, young mother of two children, "forgot" how to breathe, they said. Functions of involuntary nerve centres controlling unconscious breathing were impaired. The condition arose as a complication of another disease.

While Mrs. Laplante was under treatment for the other malady, she suddenly stopped breathing. She was rushed to a respirator—"the iron lung"—and automatically she was forced to breathe. For the last ten days her life has been dependent on the machine.

Esquimalt W.I.—The Esquimalt Women's Institute will hold the regular monthly meeting on Thursday at 7.45 p.m. in the Parish Hall, St. Paul's Garrison Church.

Oak Bay Friendly Help Aids Many

At a general meeting of this society it was decided to adopt a constitution calling for quarterly general meetings of members in April, July, October and January, instead of monthly meetings. By this same constitution a member was defined as any resident of Oak Bay making any contribution of money or goods during the current year.

Mrs. G. T. Brown, reporting for the supplies committee, gave an interesting report of families helped during the month of March. Owing to the Good Friday holiday, the rooms will be open this week on Tuesday and Thursday.

Guide Association—The Local Association of Girl Guides will hold their meeting on Wednesday at 8 p.m. at headquarters.

WOULD CONTROL HOUSE NUMBERS

Legislation to make house numbers on all city homes and buildings uniform in size and location is proposed by the business and trade development committee of the City Council.

According to a report filed for the council this evening, the city solicitor will be asked for a ruling on whether the board has power to impose such a by-law. It would require that all numbers be the same size and posted in similar places on buildings, as well as being of a color which would contrast well with the background.

Uncle Wiggily And Charlie's Worm

By HOWARD R. GARIS

Once upon a time, when Uncle Wiggily was hopping across the fields looking for an adventure, he saw a little hole in the ground. In the hole was a little worm sticking his head up and looking around very carefully. "Oh! Oh!" said the little worm boy as he caught sight of the rabbit gentleman. "Oh, me! Oh, my!" and down into the hole popped the worm like a Jack in the Box coming up.

"What's the matter?" asked Uncle Wiggily. "You aren't afraid of me, I hope, little worm."

"Are you Charlie?" asked the worm, still keeping down inside the hole. "No, my name is Uncle Wiggily," said the rabbit. "But I know a rooster boy named Charlie."

"That's the one! That's the one! Oh, he is here after me again!" mumbled the little worm boy down in the hole.

"Has Charlie chicked the rooster boy, been after you?" asked Mr. Longears, twinkling his pink nose and thinking that perhaps he had found an adventure.

"What's the matter?" asked Uncle Wiggily. "You aren't afraid of me, I hope, little worm."

"Are you Charlie?" asked the worm, still keeping down inside the hole. "No, my name is Uncle Wiggily," said the rabbit. "But I know a rooster boy named Charlie."

"That's the one! That's the one! Oh, he is here after me again!" mumbled the little worm boy down in the hole.

Sister Mary's Kitchen

By SISTER MARY

If you are in the habit of using only lamb chops and leg of lamb you are missing some economical and delicious meals featuring such inexpensive cuts as the breast and shoulder of lamb.

BREAST OF LAMB
Two and one-half pounds breast of lamb, one small onion, four medium sized parsnips, one and one-half cups celery peas, two cups milk, two tablespoons butter, two tablespoons flour.

COAST SHOULDER OF LAMB
One shoulder of lamb, one quart tomatoes, one pound bunch young onions, one sweet green pepper, one cup hot water, two bouillon cubes, two cups elbow macaroni, one-half cup grated cheese, salt, paprika.

Put meat on rack of roaster and roast in a hot oven for twenty minutes. Then reduce heat and pour over tomatoes which have been rubbed through a sieve and combined with onions cut in slices, pepper seeded and shredded and bouillon cubes dissolved in hot water. Season with two teaspoons salt and one-half teaspoon pepper and baste the lamb frequently with tomato sauce while roasting two hours. In the meantime cook macaroni in boiling salted water until tender. Drain. Place meat on a hot platter and pour over tomato sauce. Surround with cooked macaroni sprinkled with grated cheese. Put under broiler flame long enough to melt cheese. Add a dash of paprika over the macaroni for color and serve.

Winnipeg Futures Remain Unchanged In Dull Trading

Winnipeg, April 10.—No notice was taken on the Grain Exchange here today of a one cent rise in Chicago prices, and with only a handful of export business transacted in Canadian wheat and foreign markets lethargic, trading here was narrow throughout and wheat future prices closed unchanged in all futures.

May closed at 51½, July at 52½ and October at 54½.

The strong Chicago market which held a cent gain most of the session was practically ignored by local traders, and United States wheat prices widened to a premium of about 6½ over Winnipeg. A little foreign buying was noted in early trading, but except that it absorbed light offerings in the pit, it made little impression on trading sentiment. Liverpool and Buenos Aires quotations were also lower.

World wheat shipments during the last week were the smallest in many months, totaling only 9,977,000 bushels, compared with 11,500,000 bushels the week previous and 14,750,000 bushels in the corresponding week last year. North America shipped only 2,987,000 bushels of this total, and while most of it was Canadian wheat, it was considered a poor showing in the face of dull international competition. The only bright spot in the statistical position was the decrease of almost 2,000,000 bushels in supplies on ocean passage to Europe, which now amount to 47,616,000 bushels, almost 11,000,000 bushels less than at this time last year.

Traders were unable to report any improvement in cash wheat and coarse grains trading, and spreads remained unchanged with sales restricted.

BOYS' BAND IMPRESSIVE

"What a Band!" Exclaims
Adjudicator in Giving Kitsilano Group 94 Marks

Junior Orchestras, Ensembles and Wind Instruments
Heard Saturday

"My, what a band!" exclaimed York Bowen, adjudicator, in referring to the Kitsilano Boys' Band, 1931 Canadian champions, which competed Saturday afternoon in the first United Church in the Victoria Musical Festival. "I've had a really big kick out of this contest," he added.

The New Westminster Boys' Band played first and were enthusiastically greeted, but the Kitsilano players went on better and got the highest marks of the festival, 94. The very creditable mark of 88 was given the Royal City organization.

Another exceptionally enjoyable performance Saturday afternoon was that of the Christ Church Cathedral string orchestra, under Stanley Bulley, which received 89 for its performance of the "Dargason," last movement from Holst's "St. Paul's Suite." The Victoria High School string ensemble received 80 marks.

The rhythmic orchestra, directed by little Miss Barbara Milligan, was judged best in its class, defeating the nearest of its rivals, the Oaklands School rhythmic band, by one mark.

In another class, the Victoria Toy Symphony (Miss Dorothy Francis) was awarded 87 marks.

In the section for junior symphonies, the Spencer Orchestra (Miss Annie Spencer) was the only entrant. Nahlin Young, also the only entrant in the flute solo class, scored 83.

Bernard Lemoin, Vancouver, secured first prize in the clarinet solo class and Harry Bigsby, Vancouver, was second. Byron Price led the cornettists, with Harris Stewart, Vancouver, as runner-up.

The No. 1 woodwind quartette of the Kitsilano Band defeated the No. 2 quartette in class 93 for this type of quartette.

In his adjudications, Mr. Bowen, whose chief instrument is the piano, humorously referred to his own early experiences with the flute, clarinet, cornet and trumpet and told the competitors he knew some of the difficulties to be faced in making music with these instruments.

Trades Council Expresses Alarm Over "Onslaught" on Educational Chances

"Alarm and indignation" is expressed by the Victoria and District Trades and Labor Council at the continued onslaught in the guise of economy, being made on the educational opportunities available to children in the public and high schools, according to a resolution filed for the City Council to-day from the labor group.

In view of the fact that the labor movement has consistently advocated equal educational opportunities for all, the trades council urged that every effort be made to resist "this gross injury to parents and children, to the end that the welfare of the rising generation shall not be sacrificed for the benefit of vested interests."

The resolution will go to the City Council this evening.

As a result of her work in this picture she was handed a long term contract to make films at Twickenham, and she is now one of England's leading film stars.

FIFTH REGIMENT TAKE RUGBY CUP

From another scrum Turgoose secured and broke through, but again failed to get past the Fifth's defence.

For the next few minutes the Bays bottled the Gunners in their own ground, trying desperately to get across. McInnes finally cleared with a smart kick after a short scrum.

The rowing club came back on a driving attack, slugging away at the impassable Gunners' line. McInnes again cleared with a free kick, but Letta punted back to the artillerymen's flag.

Still in the Fifth's ground the Bays gained a free kick for offside. Bill Lemm placed the ball on the opposition's twenty-five, but his attempt for goal fell short.

The Gunners cleared temporarily but the scrum came back. Brown cut through on a nice run to the Fifth's twenty-five, but lost the ball. Murray kicked over the goal line on the next play and one of the Gunners secured to touch down for a safety kick.

SMART LOOSE WORK

Lemm was hurt in the next play and the Gunners gained on kicks when the game was resumed. Smart loose work by the Fifth and a good punt by Skilling carried them into the rowing club's ground.

Skilling mis-kicked in the oarsmen's territory and Hunning followed through fast to lose McInnes back to midfield. Turgoose secured from the scrum and booted down to the Gunners' twenty-five, where Fleming was hurt and taken from the field.

Buller broke through from a loose scrum to carry the ball back to his own thirty-five yard line. The Bays returned, but McInnes cleared after a prolonged attack by the oarsmen.

Turgoose raced away on a dangerous broken field run but went down from McInnes' tackle. The Bays' three threw wild and Addison was tackled after he had scooped up the ball.

In a desperate effort to overcome the Gunners' three-point lead the rowing club stormed down. Letta tried for a drop but he was out of his position and his kick fizzled.

The rowing club kept up the attack and Turgoose kicked over to give McInnes a chance to clear on a twenty-five yard drop.

KICK CLEAR

Gribble sent the Gunners down on a kick and McInnes returned nicely when one of the oarsmen punted back. Jack Dunn secured and got away on a good run, but was grounded before he could get rid of the ball. With the game drawing to a close the oarsmen went all out for a try. Turgoose kicked too far ahead on a good rush and the Gunners touched down for a safety kick. The kick was blocked, but the Gunners stormed down.

As the game ended the Bays were still on the attack, but could not break through.

As refereed and the teams lined up as follows:

Fifth Regiment—McInnes, Gribble, A. Gaunt, Skilling, Fleming, A. Gaunt, Stipe, Rogerson, Johnson, Dickinson, Englehorn, Feden, Buller, Stewart and Dowell.

J.B.A.A.—Latta, Addison, Turgoose, Lowe, Hunning, Brown, Murray, Dunn, Lemm, Peard, Springling, de Blaquiere, Pettigrew, Usher and Nixon.

McLean Stars In Huddersfield Win With Three Goals

Hearts, by winning Saturday's games, while Hearts tied Clyde, 1 to 1.

Rangers went on a rampage against Falkirk, eleventh-place holders, scoring five goals to their rivals' one. Marshall started with two hat-tricks for the white McPhail, Fleming and Smith got one each and Anderson scored Falkirk's single. Hutchinson, Falkirk's left half, was ordered off the field for roughing.

Motherwell had little difficulty with St. Mirren when goals by Ferrier, Stevenson and MacFadden brought a 3 to 0 victory. Hearts clung to third rung of the ladder, reading down, but Walker's single did no more than offset Clyde's goal by Boyd.

Celtic took a rest and remained in fourth place, and St. Johnston, nearest challenger, Love's 2 to 2 tie with Aberdeen made him the hottest player on the field. Ferguson and Davidson scored for Aberdeen.

Gowdenburgh and Parton Thistle played a scoreless draw to contrast with the Aldrichians' 5 to 1 victory over East Stirlingshire, cellar dwellers. Connor and Law had three apiece for the winners, while Mooney and Harrison scored once each for good measure. Turnbull got the loser's goal. Hibernians lost to Stenhousemuir, 2 to 2, but remained on top of the second division by a large margin of points.

CIGARETTES STOLEN

Winnipeg, April 10 (Canadian Press).—Police are seeking four men who broke into a jobbing warehouse here, stole cigarettes, valued at $1,400 and escaped with them in a motor truck they had backed up to the door of the premises.

IN NEW FEATURE AT DOMINION

"Red Dust" At The Playhouse

The brutal, fever-bound, dangerous, but without glamorous existence of life on a rubber plantation in Indo-China is revealed in all its dramatic perspective in "Red Dust," which opened at the Playhouse Theatre to-day as a co-starring vehicle for Clark Gable and Jean Harlow.

Apparently no effort was spared to bring the Wilson Collier stage hit to the screen with all its original power.

To put it mildly, this picture has "everything," from exciting love scenes between Gable and the seductive Miss Harlow, to intensely exciting situations in which the entire cast is involved.

Shots of terrific jungle storms and hurricanes that sweep through the little known locale of the story provide many breath-taking thrills.

Also being shown on the same programme is the British picture "77 Park Lane."

CAPITOL SHOWS TWO FEATURES

"Second Hand Wife" and "The Unwritten Law" Have Splendid Casts

The story of a man, successful in business but a failure in his domestic relations and a young secretary who falls in love with her employer, is revealed in "Second Hand Wife," the new Fox picture co-starring Sally Eilers and Ralph Bellamy in the leading roles and now at the Capitol Theatre.

Miss Eilers appears as the secretary who realizes that the man is not happy in his fashionable marriage and that only his beloved daughter holds her home together. She realizes, too, that he loves her and cannot conceal the fact. How she becomes his wife by sacrificing her happiness for the child makes a story that is said to run the gamut of human emotions.

The cast, appearing in support of the featured players, includes such favorites as Helen Vinson, Dorothy Christy, Ester Howard, Effie Ellard, Victor Jory, Nella Walker, Karol Kay, Clay Clement and Ara Hawell.

A vital problem that may present itself to any man is the theme of "The Unwritten Law," the new Majestic picture, which is the second feature. Funnell Phit plays the role of the man with the problem. Early in his married life, he was attacked and he had to die by his wife's lover, who fled from Africa, the scene of the crime, with the faithless spouse.

DOMINION THEATRE

After several months of grooming, Warner Bros. have launched a new romantic team in the persons of Dick Powell and Patricia Ellis. Their debut in this capacity is in support of George Arliss in his new picture, "The King's Vacation," being shown at the Dominion Theatre to-day, in which the pair provide the youthful love interest.

Miss Ellis was signed by the studio last spring and has been carefully trained in dramatic interpretation, her education being supervised by her father, Alexander Leftwich, well-known New York stage producer. The studio also put her in small picture parts for the purpose of acquainting her with studio routine, technique and atmosphere.

Dick Powell is already known to the screen audience through the success he made in his part of the conner in "Blessed Event" and as the juvenile in "Forty-second Street."

Two Pictures At Columbia

A house within a house forms one of the charming settings for some of the rapid fire action in the First National production, "Employees' Entrance," now showing at the Columbia Theatre, with a brilliant all star cast headed by Warren William, Loretta Young and Alice White.

This a full sized colonial home of six rooms, built on the floor of the department store, constructed at the Warner Bros.-First National studios for the picture. The store is built on an impressive scale and occupies 30,000 square feet of floor space.

Also on the bill is "Devil is Driving," starring Edmund Lowe.

WAR SHATTERED ISLAND WRITER

Developed Fatal Illness From Wet Billets, Pensions Tribunal Is Told

How a writer for The Spectator, for Everybody's Magazine and for Blackwood's before the Great War was shattered physically by his war service overseas that when he returned to his home he developed cancer of the lung, from which he died in 1925, was told before the Dominion Pensions Tribunal today by doctors and members of the family.

The tribunal resumed sittings with Brigadier-General L. H. McDonald presiding.

On the bench, Col. Cy Peck, V.C., who has been called to Ottawa for discussions. Capt. E. C. MacKenzie in the other commissioner.

The commissioners today heard Dr. W. T. Walker, pathologist, give the latest on cancer, which has been the puzzle of medical science for generations, and which he explained now is apparently caused by an infection.

Dr. Walker was called to the stand by Gerald H. Sedgwick, solicitor, to testify regarding the lung cancer which had developed following the infection caused by bronchitis and asthma.

MUST BE INFECTION
"Evidence is accumulating now that cancer is due to some infection," said the pathologist. "It is probably due to some specific infection which, if this soldier had not got, he would never have got cancer. In his case there was chronic irritation, but that in itself is not sufficient to cause cancer. There must be some infection."

He went on to explain, in answer to questions, that only a small proportion of the cases of bronchial asthma proceed to cancer.

Other doctors whose testimony was taken were Dr. Fred Kincaid, lung specialist, and Dr. H. E. Redwood.

A son of the author told how he and his father had enlisted together, and spent their first months in the army, and then in the trenches, and how he was under constant hospitalization from the end of the war until he died in May, 1925.

During Dr. Kincaid's examination it was brought out that the sick man had developed his bronchial trouble through being billeted in wet huts after going overseas.

The widow was on the stand this morning testifying regarding her husband's health. The pension now being applied for is for the loss of her husband.

The tribunal reserved its decision.

FEET AND LEGS RUINED
Flat feet, duodenal ulcer, arthritis and various veins were some of the things which a local soldier who had been a painter before the war testified that the army had given him.

"Before the war I had never been to a doctor," the widow testified, "but after the war I had never been to a doctor."

His trouble started with all the marching around behind the lines in France in 1916. Then he went to the 5th Battalion and one day, when returning from the advanced lines with the trench company, his right foot swelled up so he could not get his boot off. After tearing it off it was impossible to get a boot on. His veins were also found varicose. As a result, in October, 1916, he was on his way home from France and was given a pension on a three-fifths rating for his legs and feet. Increase in this pension is now sought, because of the number of other illnesses which he traced back to his experiences in France.

The tribunal reserved its decision.

Birthday Greetings Are Extended To-day To—

MRS. CLEVE WHITE
CHARLES E. TISDALE
W. J. WOODLEY

Mrs. Cleve White, wife of the well-known local lawyer, is observing a birthday to-day. Mrs. White is a member of a pioneer family of the Gordon Head district.

Charles Edward Tisdale, "Dictator" of North Vancouver, on Sunday observed his sixty-seventh birthday. Mr. Tisdale was born at Birmingham, England, April 9, 1866. He is a former president of the Vancouver Board of Trade, for six years was chairman of the Vancouver Board of Park Commissioners, and later served as Mayor of Vancouver City. He was first elected as a member of the British Columbia Legislature in 1898 and was re-elected in 1909. He is prominent in Masonic circles.

Mr. Tisdale was last year appointed commissioner of the District of North Vancouver, and shortly afterwards took over the control of the affairs of North Vancouver, and the affairs of North Vancouver city.

One of Victoria's enterprising garage and service station operators, Chester "Chet" Downman, whose place of business is located at 724 Johnson Street, is receiving congratulations on his birthday to-day. Up to the time the Arena was burned down, Chet Downman was prominent in amateur ice hockey circles, playing forward with the Victoria senior amateur team. Chet was born and educated in Vancouver. Six years ago he came to Victoria. He is a member of the Victoria Rotary Club.

William John "Jack" Woodley, popular soccer and rugby player and middle distance runner, who turns out for the Y.M.C.A. in a track uniform and the Canadian Scottish in rugby strip, kicks off into maturity to-day as he celebrates his twenty-first birthday.

Born in Leicester, England, Jack came to Victoria as a newspaperman, but at the age of one year he was educated at the Collegiate School, Victoria High School and spent a year at Victoria College. On a trip to his place of birth, he put in another term at Wyggeston Grammar School.

Jack has shown considerable skill in all the games he has taken up, and has gained enviable reputation for sportsmanship. He works in the advertising department of the British Columbia Electric Railway Company.

The manner in which co-operative farming in Denmark had led that country to a position of dominance in the butter, eggs and bacon markets was described to members of the Gyro Club at their luncheon in the Empress Hotel today by Peter Guldbrandson, California journalist.

To the farmers he paid all the tributes for the nation's internal development, sketching the progressive policy which had been followed in that land since the war of 1864.

Mr. Guldbrandson referred to the Danish system of stamping eggs shipped by farmers on the Jutland Peninsula. It was a sample of the country's efficiency, he said.

By following up the shipment of eggs, he said, a newspaperman, had gained a keen insight into the co-operative farming system in Denmark. He spoke of the history of Denmark following the war of 1864, when that nation had lost Schleswig, Germany.

Loss of territory had caused despair until reform leaders had developed the theory of internal growth to compensate for its land losses.

The great reformer, N. F. S. Grundtvig, father of Denmark's adult high schools, had promoted a constructive nationalism and impressed the nobility of toil upon the students as they were learning co-operative agriculture.

A resolution in Danish agriculture, which transformed the land from a great grain producer to a mixed farming area, set in shortly after 1880. By co-operative action the country had specialized in exporting butter, eggs and bacon. The farmers had learned their strength lay in united action.

They had adopted readily the co-operative system and became the producers of 31 per cent of the world's butter, Mr. Guldbrandson said.

The butter was of the highest standard attainable and was distributed fresh to far-flung sources.

Briefly, the speaker outlined the operations of the co-operative concerns.

The average dairy had about 150 members. The farmers themselves had a great deal to do with the export sales through eleven large houses.

Annual output a few years ago amounted to $125,000,000 worth of butter.

After securing the butter market the Danes had adopted the same methods to develop their bacon industry. Co-operative slaughter houses were instituted and a well-organized industry which cared for sales without a middleman's cut was built up.

In 1928 the Danish co-operative concern had sold $60,000,000 worth of bacon to the British market. The members of the co-operatives were

What a glorious thing is the GIFT OF MUSIC

Those who attended the final event of the Musical Festival at the Royal Victoria Theatre on Saturday evening will agree "what a glorious thing is the gift of music." Nothing could be more commendable than the enthusiasm and talent displayed by the children, and every honor won during the week of competition was double victory. A triumph for the pupil and a source of deep satisfaction for the teacher who had painstakingly developed the child's gift of music.

At Fletcher Bros. both pupil and teacher will find an understanding of musical requirements, a helpful and considerate service, a stock of musical instruments, second to none in all Canada.

Fabrics Are Neutral On the Color Question

Beige, The Popular Day Color

Natural Yarns and Neutral Colorings Add New Chapters to the Woolen Story

In the group of neutrals advanced for the spring season beige is slated to be the outstanding day color. It will be seen in every nance, used alone or in combination with other shades of beige, with brown and occasionally with navy blue.

In coatings the natural color woolsens such as cashmere, camel's hair and llama will be in high favor. In a sturdy but soft coating natural beige and brown tones of camel's hair yarn are combined in a simple weave to make a most interesting mixture. An all-cashmere yarn is used in a herringbone cutting where two shades of tan are employed. Many of the glen plaid woolsens are developed in light neutrals like cream, pearl grey and string color. Brown and cream tweeds in ratine mixture patterns or mannish chevrons are popular for travel and utility coats.

A new apricot tone as well as orange and gold are sunny highlights that combine very naturally with the neutrals.

THE GREY SIDE OF WOOLENS

Grey, the second of the neutral colors, will be seen more in combination with other colors than alone. In the light tones, the combination of two greys is new and smart. Oxford grey looks particularly distinguished in kempy woolsens. Grey and white or grey and blue rabbit's hair woolsens are sponsored quite generally for dresses, sports suits and sweaters. For dressy coats, fashion is showing considerable interest in grey matisse woolsens. In the combination of check plus plain woolen, used so frequently in two-piece suits and three-piece cape ensembles, black and gold or bright blue and white are used to vary the neutral picture. For topcoats, the newest of which are made in three-quarter reefer style, novelty yarn tweeds in red, black and white mixtures are popular. Thick surface are well liked for sports woolsens.

In crepey and spongy woolsens for the loose dressmaker suits and ensembles consisting of woolen coat and print dress, interest is about equally divided between matelasse and ribbed treatments.

In line with the vogue for crinkled weaves comes the news that sheer crinkly woolsens in interesting colors for one-piece afternoon dresses are being worn in Paris and New York. One that is particularly new looking is a silk and wool mixture with a texture that suggests tussah. Not only vivid tones like purple and cerise, but subtle dusty pastels like lime and amber show to wonderful advantage in these sheers. Plain flannels are starred in a group of colors including dusty off-pastels, vivid tones and dark colors which combine nicely with patterned spring jackets. Besides the plain flannels there are fancy types with diminutive mannish patterns running to grey tones.

The companion scene for spring suits is suggested in such combinations as a novelty plaid worsted in chicory green with a grey knobby yarn plaiding to combine with a soft, full-textured chicory green monotone woolen.

Grey and beige vie for popularity in the neutral group. The grey crepe pictured below is relieved by a crinkled organdie vest and becoming bow

THE SPOTLIGHT IS FOCUSED ON THE NECKTIE

If we were to be asked to state the most outstanding single feature of the daytime type of dress for spring, we would unhesitatingly say, "interest above the waistline." We would also be prompted to further qualify our remark by adding "look to the neck-line, a great deal of attention is going to be paid to it."

With "interest above the waistline" established as our main theme we will proceed to outline for you some of the identification marks of the dresses you are going to see in a very short time. While every means known to the art of designing seems to have been employed to achieve novel effects, the lines of the silhouette remain basically the same as last season, showing width through the shoulders, and a slim trim line through the hips; the hats continue to be small, sitting high and well forward. Therefore we must have soft flattery somewhere and after all is not the logical place for it about the neck? What more welcome news could the feminine world have than this—that frocks are once more to be flattering and soft about the face?

This, however, is not to be taken to mean a lot of meaningless frills and bows and furbelows for there is very definite logic in the treatment of the upper portion of these new frocks. There are ruffles, bows, jabots and ties, to be sure, but in the hands of such skilled artists as Paton, Schlappach, Leong, Mainbocher and Chanel they form an integral part of the design of the dress and are in no sense "just a bit of detail" added as an afterthought.

Lingerie details in crisp organdie or mousseline de sole are extremely important, particularly in white or black rough crepe. White for the trimming

THE COAT MINUS FUR

Utility Types Favor Patou's Reefer

The coat without fur for spring, 1933, is fashioned on much softer lines than last year, many times made so much like a dress that it might be termed a coat-dress. For this type of coat, the crepey fabrics rank first in importance with both the bark-like construction and smoother weaves considered in navy, black, beige and grey. Remarkable versatility is displayed in the styling of capes, scarfs, easy armholes and the use of lacing to fasten the coat. Another new detail is the use of the padded shoulder in the mannish types.

With the tailored suit in high favor for spring, Paton sponsors the reefer type of coat to be worn with it. These are especially good looking in navy blue trimmed with white pique and made with either a plain set-in sleeve or with the new padded shoulder.

CAPES ARE SQUARED

One of the most interesting developments of the cape theme in the furless category is the square cape of self-fabric which looks very much like the sailor collar on a middie blouse. The triple-tiered cape that introduces a tied closing at the throat is also a novel detail. The tiered or "coachman" silhouette has a very youthful air that will make it a certain success with the younger woman.

Small fabric ascots and hood-like versions are done in the manner of Bruyere with scarf ends very wide and short in front. The large stole scarf that may be arranged in various ways comes in for consideration. One model of soft crepey woolen coupling it effectively with shirring on the sleeves. Contrasting silk scarfs that are knotted in front afford a way to introduce a second color.

UTILITY COATS

Two silhouettes stand out especially important in the spring collection of coats of the utility or travel type—the wide arm belted type and coats with sleeve fullness concentrated near the shoulder. An effective way of treating the scarf is represented in a smart utility coat where a bright checked scarf is tied monk fashion around the high neck closing.

SUIT SILHOUETTES

Go Mannish or Feminine in Spring Suits

There are two basic silhouettes featured in the suit mode for spring, 1933. One may choose the suit with straight three-quarter jacket developed in sport as well as street woolsens, or the mannish tailleur done in a wide range of men's wear fabrics. Of course, this does not mean that there will not be plenty of soft intermediate types, particularly those with a "bit" of fur trimming to appeal to those looking for less extreme styles. Typical of the latter is a soft grey, cashmere woolen skirt with high-waisted printed silk bodice worn with a grey jacket in waist-length that is cleverly furled with grey fox, the fur laced in to make the collar stand away from the face.

CONTRASTING COATS AND SKIRTS

A feature of the spring suit mode that may surprise you when you first see it, but which you will have to admit is very new and decidedly smart, is the combination of contrasting effects. Many of the new two-piece suits are appearing in brown and tan and in grey and blue combinations. In working out these two-tone effects the jacket is not infrequently made of the lighter tone and the skirt in the darker tone. This is especially true of the blue and grey combination.

Another variation of the two-tone idea is worked out with skirts of narrow striped woolsens embodying both light and dark colors with a jacket of the dark. More striking effects are seen in the coupling of navy with red. This combination was seen in a costume in which the skirt was of navy blue woolen and the double-breasted wide-revered jacket in reddish mixture tweed. A very stunning cape costume joined a light brown with apricot-colored rabbit's hair woolen.

MANNISH TAILLEUR

The precision of the tailoring and the smart mannish quality of the fabrics are noteworthy features of the two-piece tailleur as we see it for the coming season. Both single and double-breasted models are available. The fabrics embrace the dark and light oxford worsteds in tiny broken or two-color checks, in small patterned herringbones, in subdued striped fabrics, in glen plaid or salt-and-pepper effects.

In the silhouette where the longer straight jacket is sponsored, the thirty-five-inch length is the favorite. This suit is variously interpreted for general wear, one model being especially good-looking in fine imported navy blue rep; another in beige matisse Woolen worn with a detachable scarf for summer ermine.

WHITE MATELASSE GILET

Characteristic of both the tailored and softer silhouettes is the vogue for trimming at the neck. It may be a gilet and twisted scarf of white matisse worn with a red and white tweed suit, a plaid scarf of wool ratine to complete a cape costume of rough woolen or a detachable flat Peter Pan collar of fur to go with a tailored suit of worsted. And while we are on the subject of the small collar of fur this very young-looking collar is very popular, being both becoming and practical since it ties or buttons in place, avoiding constant ranging.

MILLINERY MODES FOR 1933 VIEWED FROM A NEW SLANT

While the 1933 spring chapeau is to remain small and will be worn tilted over the right eye as in the past season, no woman will be able to say she is unable to find a style that is becoming to her in the new collections, for Paris this year has designed a hat for every type of face and there is the widest choice of trimmings and fabrics offered in many a moon.

Those who have found it difficult and well nigh impossible to wear the very extreme styles with tiny brims and scoop crowns will welcome the arrival of several new basic silhouette trends. These are ideally suited to the matron. One of these is "The Marquis," sponsored by Agnes, a small toque with cuff brim. The latter rolls away from the face, ending in a high flange at the back or a high bank of soft raggy flowers, or again in loops of ribbon. The cuff brim may dip down over one eye and roll towards the back, forming a narrow brim. Sometimes the latter is faced with contrasting straw or with striped silk. The other new trend introduces more height in the crown in the form of ridges or pleats, usually from back to front. Rose Desca's new shape with creased crown called "Fedora" is an example. The use of stand-up trimming at front is another way the designers are arriving at height.

One will have to admit that the beret type of hat is a veritable "fashion pet" for season after season it bobs up like the proverbial penny. This season it looms up again more strongly than ever, but the Paris designers are too clever to serve it up in the same way. The beret comes forth in its new guise showing various draped arrangements, which in the hands of an expert like Marie Guy, do all sorts of becoming things for the wearer. Then there is the visor brim where the beret line is only faintly suggested by a few cleverly placed creases in the crown.

There are many new shapes which receive their inspiration from the Breton sailor of the fall season, but showing much more individuality and a softening of line of the crown with pleats and ridges. The newest slant on turban shapes is the Oriental influence discernable in various adaptations of the Turkish and Moroccan "fez." Reboux's interpretation is higher on one side than the other. Schiaparelli does her new turbans in much the same way, but patterns her shapes after the Russian cosack hat and shows hers more frequently in fabric than in straw.

The smartest hats are of straw and of straw-like fabric. Exotic is perhaps the best word to describe the new straws, so unusual and interesting are they in character. It is upon the medium in which the hat is developed that three-fourths of its chic depends. Among these exotic types, Centaig is new and is being used by every French milliner. Yo-Yo is another sponsored by Alphonse. This is said to be a burl fibre from Malilla woven in China.

Heavy navy crepe with white spot and large white organdie bow. Navy felt hat shows the new floral treatment.

The Newest Wrinkle In Cottons

With fashions so crinkle-fabric conscious, it is to be expected that the novelty cottons for spring, 1933, would subscribe to this trend, too. The fashion scouts at the southern resorts have reported they were seen at every smart gathering. The crinkled organdie, which Lyolene and several other French dressmakers are promoting, is now available in monotone, self-stripings, as well as checks and plaids.

TWEEDY COTTONS ARE NEW

It has taken fashion several seasons to fully appreciate the practical advantages of tweedy cottons. This coming season should find this novelty high in the list of favorites. Word from Paris indicates that this fabric has met with the approval of some of the more important French dressmakers. Schiaparelli endorses mixtures and patterned cottons suggesting tweeds. They are extremely smart in the sports type of appearance of men's suitings in salt-and-pepper blends.

NOVELTY PIQUES

Pique has become a classic in the world of cotton fabrics, so practical and smart it is for sports and youthful evening modes. The feeling for surface interest, so strong a tendency in all types of fabrics this year, will bring novelty piques into prominence such as bird's eye and waffle weaves.

Indeed, so important have the new cottons become that we find them invading all sorts of fields that were formerly held sacred to the more aristocratic silks and woolsens, and the effect is charming.

Evening Accessories

Evening sales of satin ribbon in contrasting colors are knotted softly and fall gracefully to the hem of pastel chiffon and printed chiffon frocks. Rhinestone and jeweled ornaments to keep the hair in place are new. Large pastel knitted angora "kerchief" shawls are worn with evening frocks of cotton fabrics.

Taffeta is forging ahead as a smart evening fabric and is appearing in frocks as well as short jackets.

Outlawing most of the current attire for men, merchant tailors prescribe dress coats with longer tails, grey tuxedos and silk waistcoats in pastel shades. This should give men something to think about while they meditate behind the curtains at the paint pressers.

Smart Sports Wear Looks To Its Knitting

Knitted Fashions Are More Ladylike

The severely tailored tendencies so long associated with smartness in knitted sportswear are less apparent this season than ever before. For the past two seasons we have been slowly getting away from the plain stereotyped feeling, at least in so far as clothes for general sports and spectator wear are concerned, leaving the decidedly masculine styling for the active sports field such as golfing, horseback riding, tennis, etc., where there is genuine physical exertion.

SHIRTWAIST TENDENCIES

The new era of femininity in knitted wear makes itself felt in soft lines, more becoming details and a silhouette that follows more and more closely the mode in street apparel. This spring you will see the shirtwaist influence worked out in knitted frocks with all the smart little details of silk dresses introduced, such as club collars with ties, pleats in the bodice to give fullness and the same yoke and pocket treatments.

Even our conservative old friend, the boucle dress, comes under the magic spell of femininity and adopts such "ladylike" features as puffed sleeves, drop shoulder yokes, capelet sleeves and becoming touches of angora hand-knitted trimming.

The fabrics for the new knitted costumes are exceedingly lovely, so many new processes for achieving a fine hand-knitted appearance having been perfected. The yards favor the rabbit's hair types, lightweight chenilles, soft zephyrs, rayon and wool novelty knits and boucles. Many lacy and open weaves are observed, although those with a very definite pattern, such as stripes, checks, tweed mixtures, dotted and plaided designs offer a more diversified and newer range of designs. The rabbit's hair knits, when used for dresses, often introduce dainty lace treatments across the shoulders, closing with tiny buttons at the back of the neckline. The chenilles in the thin yarn versions are ideal for the new types with dressy details.

THREE-PIECE COSTUMES

The three-piece type of knitted sports costume appears in interesting pocket, skirt and cape interpretations. A new two-piece type appears in grey with blue and red horizontal stripings, has a belted jacket and a dress with short puff sleeves. The jacket can be discarded when the weather permits, leaving a dress that is smart as any silk frock. Another type of knitted costume adds a charming little three-quarter cape to a matching dress, the latter being in one of the new yellow-greens, finished with linen details at neck and cuffs.

Belts Aid The Cause Of Contrast

With the accent on the normal waistline belts are an extremely important accessory this season. The great emphasis placed upon contrast makes them of more than usual importance. There are more of the novelty fabric belts this season, ranging from wide but softly crushed sashes with long ends tied in a loose bow at front to wooden fabric shirred types in narrow widths.

On the left is a narrow brim model of navy yedda showing the shallow crown silhouette in a modified form. The turban treatment in the centre is new. Right—Desca's successful "fedora."

Bows, Scarfs And Crinkled Organdie Are In The Limelight

With so much fashion interest centering around the neckline, neckwear assumes an important role. Collars as a consequence come in for considerable attention with the bib type standing high in favor. The jabot with squared off or rounded corners is popular in dainty lingerie effect made of organdie or batiste and finished with rows of lace. Small straight neckbands with frills, tabs or jabots give the desired high neck treatments found in this smartest of spring frocks.

While white, of course, leads all other

A bib collar of white pique with border of pique on the bias. Bow scarf of taffeta worn in "pussy-cat" fashion with sulis. Ruching of white organdie colors, there is a tendency to introduce delicate flower shades in neckwear particularly in the gimpes and vestees of crisp organdie. In these, yellow is the best, with petal pinks and soft blues following.

Bow arrangements at the neck call the scarf into active play. Taffeta has been revived for the scarf that is

CRINKLED ORGANDIE

The newest wrinkle in neckwear is crinkled organdie. And while we are on the subject of wrinkles we would like to add that all the cloque effects, the blistered, crinkled and raised treatments seen in new silk fabrics for dresses are being shown in neckwear items as well.

Cape Theme With Variations Fashion's Favorite Spring Song

EVENING JACKETS OF WHITE PIQUE

The black and white theme, has taken such a firm hold upon the feminine fancy that even the collection of evening clothes for the coming season shows a great preponderance of black and white combinations. Dresses of black tulle with tiny snug-fitting jackets of white pique made like a man's evening waistcoat are seen wherever smart young things foregather.

For dinner wear there are black flat crepe dresses with white mouseline de sole sleeves made of overlapping ruffles, the white touch repeated at the décolletage.

Chanel predicts a successful season for tulle. She had added a bouffant frock of Havana brown tulle to her collection made with a separate jacket of turquoise tulle, the latter being fashioned with large puff sleeves.

The high neckline continues as an important feature and when applied to the new evening frocks results in many charming effects. It may fit tightly around the neck or the high line may be simulated in any number of ways with scarfs, capes and draperies.

TUNICS AND PEPLUMS
Looming up importantly on the evening horizon is the tunic theme, appearing in knee-length and three-quarter versions. The new feature gives the evening gown an entirely new silhouette when coupled with slim princess waists and high swathed necks.

Whenever it is imminent that a tunic era is about to spring forth one may be assured that peplums are not far behind. The two-piece effect resulting in a peplum at the hips or just below the waistline is shown in some of the smartest dinner and formal frocks of matelasse and cloque silks. We have illustrated what we think is as especially interesting one finished with sequin bands.

The short swaggar coat, a new member of the sports family, is shown with contrasting skirt. Many spring coats feature soft neck treatments and are made on coat-dress lines. The cape is frequently part of the three-piece suit.

Printed Taffeta Joins The Matelasse Family

Matelasse is making history for the fabric world. There is no denying there is a dramatic quality about these new blistered and crinkled weaves that is quite in keeping with the revival of fashions of other days. With the spotlight thrown this season upon all the fads and foibles of the "Mauve Decade," it is not illogical that the prevailing fashions in fabrics of that period should be resurrected. During that period surface interest was paramount, and these same raised and crinkled effects we now describe as matelasse or cloque were all the rage. It is interesting to note that the newest addition to this group of silks, printed taffeta, was introduced by none other than the lovely Lily Langtry before the turn of the century.

For modern ladies there is a wide variety of matelasse types to choose from, both for afternoon and evening wear. The favorites for daytime are two-tone group runs to conservative, and embraces the checks, stripes and small figure designs in navy and grey, black and white, beige and brown and other two-color combinations. The three-color group usually employs one vivid color, such as sapphire blue, cherry red or spring green on a black and white or other two-color ground. The multi-colored group taken in the large geometric and floral patterns in which the lovely Victorian pastels such as dusty rose, mauve and hyacinth blue mingle harmoniously. For evening wear the prints run to brilliant colorings on chiffon and rough crepe fabrics, favoring the yellows and yellow green shades combined with grey.

Organza, or starched chiffon is also a favorite material for evening frocks and it is as elegant and exquisite as possible. A dull, thin satin is lovely and lends itself perfectly to many of the new modes. Velvet has carried over into spring but it is presented now in strange new weaves—very striking and effective.

But as we said in the beginning all these are second—though a very close second—to the favor to the family of matelasse. But because matelasse appears in so many guises this in no way exercises a limitation upon individuality in choice.

CIRE FOR FORMAL TYPES
Again the importance of surface interest registers in cire effects. The presence of so many cire fabrics in the Paris collections of evening gowns is noteworthy. Right along the Haute Couture has been making gowns for its private clientele in these fabrics with a slightly polished look. The cire effect is produced by a special "waxing" process. First at the moment in finishing chiffon in this manner. There are two processes being used, one when applied to satin gives it the appearance of a liquid upon which a strong light has been thrown. The other type produces a less glossy effect and has the same lacquered look one sees on Chinese pottery.

JACKET COSTUMES

The jacket costume, like the vogue for printed matelasse, is a personal fashion. Both fit in so perfectly with the needs of the average woman that we just cannot get along without them. The smartest jacket costumes are in plain colors with printed silks discreetly employed for the bodice, a portion of the bodice or a scarf. For the mature figure there are jackets of varying lengths while for the young girl the costume or ensemble idea runs more to cape effects. When capes are used, they appear frequently throughout the spring mode, they are always short and are usually detachable.

A Modified Policy For Sleeves

In reviewing the tendencies in terms, like pin checks and subdued plaids. Right in line with these novel surface treatments are the ribbed weaves, developed in dark silks for town and street wear, in white and pastels for houses, evening dresses and accessories. For sports wear, the Bedford cord type of rib is in high favor in bright colors combined with white.

Floral designs in gay colors are posed on striped grounds, giving a raised effect to the flowers.

In dark street shades or in small patterns, like pin checks and subdued plaids. Right in line with these novel surface treatments are the ribbed weaves, developed in dark silks for town and street wear, in white and pastels for houses, evening dresses and accessories. For sports wear, the Bedford cord type of rib is in high favor in bright colors combined with white.

three-quarter sleeve with fullness gathered into a band and the band finished with a lingerie cuff or inner frill is frequently noticed. Many of the sleeves that sponsor fullness below the shoulder line and at the elbow are so fashioned that they may be worn in three-quarter length or pushed up above the elbow with soft bloused fullness.

Brief Jottings On Hair Styles

News comes from Paris that the hair is to be worn shorter and more closely molded to the head.

The general trend seems to be for short hair built high, but with fewer curls in black.

Hair shaping is the foundation of all waving and, if the contour of the head is to be preserved, the hair must not only be cut, but properly thinned.

Many New York hairdressers are featuring shorter bobs, eliminating fullness at the nape of the neck, giving the hair a trim, smart appearance.

A flare for ornaments for evening coiffures is noticeable—one recently seen being a brilliant spangle worn across the forehead, giving the effect of bangs.

As fashions become more and more a la Lily Langtry, veils become more and more a fixed fashion. The tiniest veils are still the smartest and those made of plain maline or net, and are worn mainly to keep the hair in place at the "off-side" of the hat. Veils continue to be worn with toques and small Watteau types as well as saliors. There is a new circular veil of plain net with a border of chenille dots and a centre motif of these same dots. It is worn thrown over the hat so the dots form the crown of the hat. It is especially effective in black with white dots and worn with a black hat.

A PREVIEW OF SPRING COATS

The New Fashion Sees the Detachable Idea Firmly Entrenched

Coat designers are bringing forth a wealth of new ideas in collars and sleeve treatments this season. While the furless coat will occupy a prominent position as it always does in the late spring, the fur-trimmed coat, particularly the type that goes in for detachable fur trimming, will have the greatest appeal.

Since the coat silhouette is decidedly more modified this year, getting away from the topheavy effects of the fall, it is natural that fur trimmings should enhance this feeling. Hence the capelet collar is often cut smaller and lies flatter, draped collars add a softer quality to the silhouette, while numerous crossed treatments add symmetry and balance.

There can be no doubt as to the supremacy of the cape for it appears in every conceivable fashion and it is here that the detachable idea is called into play.

BOWS ARE DEMURE

The fabric ties that have served to secure detachable fur collars have been replaced in many instances by ribbons of taffeta, grosgrain or satin that offer an opportunity to introduce a bright note of color on a neutral or dark woolen. These bows are wonderfully becoming and youthful on the round schoolgirl collars of fur and also serve the purpose of keeping the bandanna collar in its proper place. The suit also makes much of the bow idea, tying scarfs of plaid or checked taffeta into a prim bow under the chin or crushing it to fill the deep V décolleté.

Where a blouse is presented with suit, the bow is of smaller proportions, its purpose being to finish off a high neckline.

The Patou influence is apparent in some of the detachable fox scarfs that are presented, the fur arranged so it may be slipped through a ring and pulled close to the throat or simply twisted in various ways. The collarette idea is also sponsored, the fur worn in a rounded snug fashion and tied with a bow of fabric under the chin.

The capelet, very short and perky and made entirely of fur or composed of rows of fur bands is another popular feature in the youthful types, this, too, being made detachable and tying under the chin.

Occasionally one finds the much-loved cape collar shirred in front, giving a soft drapery appearance that looks very new or it may be draped to one side, suggesting a semi-cape effect. These ideas are developed in fabric as well as fur, are most effective in contrasting materials. Scarfs draped in the manner of the cowl and bandanna are other charming expressions of this theme.

CRISS-CROSS COLLARS

The criss-cross collar of the fall appears in new guises—most of them so far from the autumn versions that few would link the two. The scarfs cross and button farther out on the shoulder or in more elaborate fashion than did the three-way collar, while scarfs of flat fur are cut long enough so they may be crossed and worn under the belt. Maygy Rouff's gilet has proven a popular example of this type of detachable fur trim.

How to Choose a Bride

Dorothy Dix

Tells Secret of Successful Marriage

Look at the Girl's Mother, Not the Girl, Is Dorothy Dix's Advice to Prospective Bridegrooms—If She Is Considerate of Her Husband, Grab Her Daughter, But If She Is Peevish, Don't Let Wild Horses Drag You to the Altar

A YOUNG man who is about to be married asks me if I will give him a few tips about how to make his marriage a success. He says that when a girl is about to get married she is in the stormy sea of matrimony and everybody loads her down with advice, but that no one ever throws a hint by way of a life preserver to the bridegroom, although he is in just as much need of a chart and compass as the bride is.

This is well. Too long has it been considered that the way a marriage turned out was a matter of luck instead of its being the result of intelligent effort and, anyway, that the success or the failure of it depended exclusively on the woman. Hence it is a helpful sign to find out that a man expects to go fifty-fifty with his wife on making a happy home and keeping her glad that she married him, instead of wondering why she did it.

Now my first piece of advice to any bridegroom is to pick out his mother-in-law first. Don't look at Prettiness. Look at her mother, and listen to her mother talk, and observe how her mother treats her husband, because ninety-nine times out of a hundred that will give you a close-up of what Prettiness is going to be at forty-five and how she will treat you if you marry her.

If mother is a good-looking, progressive, interesting woman; if she is tender and considerate of her husband, grab up Prettiness and rush with her to the nearest preacher. But if mother is slovenly and a sloppy housekeeper, and dull and narrow-minded and prejudiced and peevish and fretful, and if she nags at her husband and keeps his nose to the grindstone, don't let wild horses drag you to the altar with her daughter.

Next, make an intensive study of the bundle of inherited traits and habits and contradictions and nerves and tempers that you are trying up with. Most men never really get acquainted with their wives. A husband can live with his wife for forty years without ever discovering why she does certain things and reacts in a certain way to certain other things, and without ever being able to guess which way the cat is going to jump.

Therefore, they never find out how to manage their wives and they spend their whole married lives in ceaseless wrangles and quarrels and frustrations that could all have been avoided if they had only taken the trouble to find the key to the riddle of how to make their wives eat out of their hands.

Furthermore, in your investigation in feminine psychology I would urge you to pay attention to these three peculiarities of the sex:

First. That women never shed their sweet tooth, no matter how old they get. At ninety they still crave to be fed on love talk and to be treated as if they were brides. Hence, if you want to keep your wife happy, never cease courting her. Give her plenty of hot air and she will not ask for anything else.

Second. Never forget that women put more stress on words than on deeds. A man may work himself to death to lap his wife in luxury, but she will doubt his love and consider herself a poor abused creature if he never mentions the state of his affections to her. But if he will tell her every day how he loves her, she will take in boarders to support him and thank God on her knees for having given her a pearl among husbands.

Third. Remember that women put inordinate value on little things. You may beat a woman. You may starve her. You may neglect her. And she will still be happy if you only take her out on an occasional party and remember anniversaries and send her now and then a bunch of flowers.

Use diplomacy in handling your wife. Don't batter yourself to pieces against the stone wall of her peculiarities. Step around them. Don't antagonize her. Placate her. Sugar catches more feminine flies than vinegar does.

If you want your wife to be economical, don't knock her extravagance. Praise her thrift. If you want her to be a good housekeeper, don't criticize her bad cooking. Laud her pies and she will break her neck to come up to your good opinion of her.

Don't get married under the hallucination that two can live as cheaply as one, to say nothing of a possible three or four or five or six. Don't expect your wife to be a miracle-worker and run a house on air. Realize that matrimony is an expensive luxury and the upkeep of a baby costs as much as to run an automobile. Then when the bills come in you won't have heart failure or row with your wife over them.

Finally, keep on selling yourself to your wife. You study ways of pleasing your employer or your customers and making yourself solid with them. Use the same tactics in dealing with your wife. Don't imagine that because she was in love with you that she is going to stay in love with you, no matter how you look or how you treat her.

Just remember that getting married is the biggest business deal you will ever go into, and put as much intelligence and energy and patience into making a go of it as you would in any enterprise out of which you expected to make a million.

And, if you do, you will make a success of it. DOROTHY DIX. Copyright by Public Ledger

Wonders of the Heavens

What are falling stars, and how do they fall? That question, from Edward Bayer, is like many which have come to me. I have given the answer before, but I feel sure that some readers would like to have me deal with it during this series.

Meteor cinder found by Perry.

When I tell of the great size of true stars, many persons are puzzled because they have heard that the so-called "falling stars" or "shooting stars" strike the earth and they wonder why such large objects do not cause more damage.

The fact is that these things are not really stars. More properly they are called "meteors." It would require hundreds of millions of meteors to make a ball the size of a single true star.

Meteors are composed chiefly of iron, nickel and stone. When they rub against the air blanket around the earth, they become so hot that they blaze through the sky.

Last month, people in Spartanburg, South Carolina, reported seeing "a blinding light" and then a great shower of pebbles fell on the streets, and on the roofs of the houses. This indicates that a meteor exploded just above the town.

In 1930 a good-sized meteor split into pieces as it fell near a village in Arkansas. One of the pieces weighed 820 pounds.

A huge meteor cinder was found by Perry during a journey to the northern part of Greenland. He located the cinder in 1894, and it was brought to a museum in New York City. It weighs thirty-seven tons.

There is reason to believe that some meteors are parts of broken comets. Others may be parts of planets which exploded in ages past.

Not long ago a scientist reported that he had found germs inside a meteor cinder. Other meteor cinders will be studied, and if they also contain the germs of life, we shall have made one of the greatest discoveries of history. It will indicate that there are living cells on one or more planets which were broken to pieces long ago. (For "science" section of your scrap-book.)

Several thousand more copies of the "Surprise Leaflet" will be mailed without charge to readers who send me a stamped return envelope. This leaflet is one of the most popular I have offered. It contains riddles, and tells how to perform magic tricks.

LONDON HAS PLAN TO FOIL BANDITS

Canadian Press
London, April 8.—An apparatus that is devised to detect smash-and-grab raiders on shop windows has been demonstrated at the United Engineers' Club, London.

It consists of two smoke bombs and an ammonia bomb, which are instantaneously fired when a window is smashed. The smoke masks all the contents of the window and drives back the raider. A powerful siren, which can be heard a quarter of a mile away, also comes into operation, and a red light flashes outside the shop.

The apparatus can be fixed in any position and works from the electricity supply. Pilot lights indicate that the apparatus is working.

New York, April 10.—After a 30,000-mile voyage around the world, the Canadian liner Empress of Britain is expected here early to-morrow morning. She left here December 3. The most discussed passenger aboard is George Bernard Shaw. After a day here the white liner will proceed to England.

Following is a telegram sent from Vancouver this morning to O. L. Boulanger, M.P., in opinion of seamen here, designed to create an imperial shipping merchant marine. Spells destruction of Canadian shipping and disregard entirely the rights of Canadian seamen. Our shipping, and seamen, must be protected. National interests must not be sacrificed to imperial advantage.

Will Send Easter Messages By Wire

Montreal, April 10.—Special arrangements for the handling of Easter greeting messages by telegraph are being made by both the Canadian National and the Canadian Pacific Telegraphs, according to a joint statement issued by the companies to-day. Officials of the telegraph companies report the wire is becoming more and more popular with Canadians, and it is anticipated that a very large number of these special messages will be carried over the telegraph wires this year.

Local greetings, those for delivery within the limits of the city of origin will be carried. Special rates will be in effect covering specially selected and appropriate greetings to friends overseas. For the convenience of the public a leaflet has been issued by the telegraph companies containing a number of specimen messages. Those who wish to wire their greetings to friends may, if they desire, select one of these messages.

NO TENDERS FOR ROAD CONTRACTS

Canadian Press
Edmonton, April 10.—Highway contracts for $1,000,000 were awarded by the province without calling for tenders in 1931 and 1932 when the relief programme was under way, declared W. R. Henson, Liberal leader, when the report of the public accounts committee, which investigated his charges of "scandal" in connection with the work, was debated in the Alberta Legislature. The amount awarded by tender in the period was $250,000.

Defeating a Conservative amendment by fifty-one to four, the Legislature proceeded to deal finally with the report.

Adoption of the report was first moved by Premier J. E. Brownlee. The report found nothing wrong with the way the work had been handled, while there was no evidence of dishonesty or irregularities on the part of the public works department, it said.

The amendment was immediately moved by Mr. Henson, charging thousands of dollars of the taxpayers' money had been thrown away.

New Cabinet For South Australia

Adelaide, South Australia, April 10.—R. L. Butler, state Liberal leader, to-day was prepared to assume office as South Australia's Premier, following the election of Premier L. H. Hilt's labor administration in Saturday's general election.

Counting of ballots was still incomplete in some of the districts, but the results indicated the Liberals would have at least thirty of the forty seats in the Legislature.

SS. EMPRESS OF BRITAIN

New York, April 10.—After a 30,000-mile voyage around the world, the Canadian liner Empress of Britain is expected here early to-morrow morning. She left here December 3. The most discussed passenger aboard is George Bernard Shaw. After a day here the white liner will proceed to England.

Following is a telegram sent from Vancouver this morning to O. L. Boulanger, M.P., in opinion of seamen here, designed to create an imperial shipping merchant marine. Spells destruction of Canadian shipping and disregard entirely the rights of Canadian seamen. Our shipping, and seamen, must be protected. National interests must not be sacrificed to imperial advantage.

Will Send Easter Messages By Wire

Montreal, April 10.—Special arrangements for the handling of Easter greeting messages by telegraph are being made by both the Canadian National and the Canadian Pacific Telegraphs, according to a joint statement issued by the companies to-day. Officials of the telegraph companies report the wire is becoming more and more popular with Canadians, and it is anticipated that a very large number of these special messages will be carried over the telegraph wires this year.

Local greetings, those for delivery within the limits of the city of origin will be carried. Special rates will be in effect covering specially selected and appropriate greetings to friends overseas. For the convenience of the public a leaflet has been issued by the telegraph companies containing a number of specimen messages. Those who wish to wire their greetings to friends may, if they desire, select one of these messages.

NO TENDERS FOR ROAD CONTRACTS

Canadian Press
Edmonton, April 10.—Highway contracts for $1,000,000 were awarded by the province without calling for tenders in 1931 and 1932 when the relief programme was under way, declared W. R. Henson, Liberal leader, when the report of the public accounts committee, which investigated his charges of "scandal" in connection with the work, was debated in the Alberta Legislature. The amount awarded by tender in the period was $250,000.

Defeating a Conservative amendment by fifty-one to four, the Legislature proceeded to deal finally with the report.

Adoption of the report was first moved by Premier J. E. Brownlee. The report found nothing wrong with the way the work had been handled, while there was no evidence of dishonesty or irregularities on the part of the public works department, it said.

The amendment was immediately moved by Mr. Henson, charging thousands of dollars of the taxpayers' money had been thrown away.

New Cabinet For South Australia

Canadian Press
Adelaide, South Australia, April 10.—R. L. Butler, state Liberal leader, to-day was prepared to assume office as South Australia's Premier, following the election of Premier L. H. Hilt's labor administration in Saturday's general election.

Counting of ballots was still incomplete in some of the districts, but the results indicated the Liberals would have at least thirty of the forty seats in the Legislature.

Mr. Butler, a son of former Premier Sir Richard Butler.

Sail North To Open Season's Activities

Princess Norah and Alaska Take Miners and Railroad Operators to Skagway

Vancouver, April 10.—Off to the picturesque north where old timers predict the biggest "gold" season since '98, the Princess Norah of the Canadian Pacific Railway's B.C. Coast Service, sailed from here Saturday night with prospectors, mining engineers, railway workers and a few early tourists.

Charles E. McLeod, director of the Yukon Consolidated Gold Fields and McLeod White, manager of the Consolidated Mining and Smelting Company headed the trek of mining experts who are going in to put summer work under way. J. Redpath, port steward at White Horse, and Capt. Sam McKay, veteran skipper of the White Pass and Yukon River service, went north with a party of workmen to prepare for opening of navigation of the Yukon River about the end of May.

Among the tourists were Clayton Hamilton of Seattle, author and lecturer; Dr. and Mrs. Lytton V. Stephens of San Francisco, and Dr. and Mrs. D. J. Dahl of Seattle.

Other spring schedule trips by the Princess Norah will be made from Vancouver April 22, May 4, 13 and 25, before she inaugurates the summer schedule June 10. St. Princess Louise and St. Princess Charlotte will carry out the balance of the summer schedule, making north-bound trips from Vancouver to Skagway, Yukon, and then to White Horse to Dawson.

Seattle, April 10.—Two hundred and forty railroaders in Alaska will be given employment next week with the arrival in Cordova of St. A. Hansen, superintendent of the Copper River and Northern Railway Company, a subsidiary of the Kennecott Copper Corporation.

Mr. Hansen sailed for Cordova on the steamship Alaska Saturday after a business conference with company officials in Seattle. While details of the conference were not announced it was definitely understood that the Copper River Railroad, the only privately-owned line in Alaska, would be reopened this spring.

It is apparent, however, that commercial activities in the Prince William Sound district which have been limited this year as it is not expected that the Kennecott copper mines will reopen and less than 50 per cent of the salmon canneries are preparing to pack during the 1933 season.

The greater part of the railroaders will be employed in the maintenance of the road between Cordova and Kenecott, a distance of 198 miles.

Calgary, April 10.—Rev. George Biddle, rector of St. Barnabas Church here, to-day announced his acceptance of a call to St. Philip's Church, Dunbar Heights, Vancouver. No definite date for his departure to the Coast city has been set.

Mr. Biddle came to Canada with the Archbishop of Canterbury and York Mission to Western Canada in 1912. He enlisted with the thirty-first Battalion in 1914 and remained overseas during the period of the World War.

On his return he graduated from St. John's College, Winnipeg, and was ordained in Calgary four years ago to the incumbency of St. Barnabas.

CONVICTS' TERMS ARE LENGTHENED

Canadian Press
Dorchester, N.B., April 10.—Sentences of five additional years each in the Dorchester penitentiary were imposed on Martelle Silver and Edward Roberts, found guilty of rioting and swindling, yesterday by Judge G. G. Humphreys, one of the masters.

The fire broke out on the roof at 11:45 o'clock and by noon was beyond control, the velvet structure, not being connected with the high pressure water system protecting most of the buildings of the group.

A softball team awaiting play assisted in saving the personal effects of Mr. and Mrs. Humphreys. The house was built in 1909 and the loss is covered by insurance.

AKRON VICTIMS' MEMORY HONORED

Associated Press
Washington, April 10.—While the muted notes of "taps" echoed through the lofty Washington Cathedral, the requiem for the seventy-three who died in the plunge of the dirigible Akron, into the Atlantic, Rt. Rev. James E. Freeman, Episcopal Bishop of Washington, yesterday paid them tribute as having maintained "the unflinching tradition which we inevitably associate with men of the navy."

Scores of comrades of the men who died, enlisted men and high officers of the army and navy, Secretary Claude Swanson of the Navy Department, and other dignitaries also were present for the special memorial service for the victims of the greatest airship tragedy the country has suffered.

Old-age Pensions Voted By Five More

New York, April 10.—Five additional states have enacted old-age pension laws this year, it is reported by the American Association for Old-Age Security. Three States, Oregon, North Dakota and Arizona, enacted pension legislation during March, and similar laws were passed by the legislatures and signed by the governors of Indiana and Washington earlier in the year.

Steady progress of pension measures in other legislatures also was reported. In Kansas an approach has been made to a pension bill which is awaiting the signature of Governor E. F. Frazier. The legislature of Oklahoma also has passed a measure. Additional bills are on the way to adoption in the lower houses of Ohio and Missouri. Favorable committee reports are speeding the progress of this legislation in other states.

A victory for old-age pensions was registered in Pennsylvania, the association reported, and a bill calling for federal aid to states granting such pensions was approved by the senate pension committee of the seventy-second congress, has been reintroduced and is now pending before the current congress.

JUDGE RULES OUT MONOPOLY CHARGE

Associated Press
Sioux Falls, S.D., April 10.—The Associated Press was absolved of charges of monopoly, discrimination and unfair competition in findings of fact of its suit to prevent a local radio station from broadcasting without authorization.

The ruling confirmed earlier decisions by Federal Judge James D. Elliott and was filed to clarify the record in the event of an appeal from the temporary injunction which restrained station KSOO from "pirating" Associated Press news.

In his findings and conclusions, Judge Elliott overruled all contentions set forth by the broadcasting company, including one that the Associated Press was operating an unreasonable restraint of interstate commerce, and held the by-laws of the organization "proper" and constituting a reasonable and legitimate safeguard from its news report.

Chileans Plan To Grow More Wheat

Associated Press
Temuco, Chile, April 10.—Under government supervision, the acreage of wheat in Chile will be doubled within the next few seasons. The government has determined Chile shall cause foreign purchases of wheat, which are a drain on a decreasing gold reserve, and that the shortage shall be turned into an exportable surplus.

Harvesting of this year's crop shows a slight official shortage, which will make necessary the purchase of Argentine wheat.

The increasing of wheat acreage is part of the government's land colonization scheme which has as its goal the ultimate elimination of unemployment. Land not now cultivated will be given over to co-operatives, collectives and individual tracts, and much of the area will be sown to wheat.
